Victory in "The Battle of The Ages" Claimed by British and French. While the Five German Armies Abandon Their Positions and Retreat.

Russians Reinforce Belgians and Unite in Attacks on Germans — Hinted That Other Nations Do Likewise—500,000 Fresh French Troopers Ready to Attack Fleeing Germans — Will Endeavor to Destroy Kaiser's Forces.

By Associated Press.

London, September 14.—The first stage of the battle of the Marne, which, from the numbers of fighting men engaged, the extent of the line of battle and the terrific struggle, is perhaps correctly described as "the battle of the ages" appears to have been won by the French and British armies, but the main German army is still intact and the supreme crash is still to come.

The present week may see even more desperate encounters than any that have yet taken place. Metz, the capital of Lorraine, and the chain of forts thence to Diedenhofen, seventeen miles north of Metz, form a strong pivot from the German left while the rivers and the dense forests on the frontier, together with the strategic roads, give the German army, if invasion now is retreat, a splendid opportunity for defensive action should the French pursuit extend this far. Military observers foresee all kinds of perplexing possibilities in the event of the Germans regaining the positions they held before they started the rush of 1,500,000 men to Paris, particularly should they succeed in taking back any large proportion of their forces.

The Servians claim continued successes against the Austrians, the greater part of whose armies are engaged with Russians to the north.

NATIONS REINFORCE BELGIANS

London, September 14.—In a dispatch from Ghent, the correspondent of the Daily News says that after two days of investigation he has confirmed a statement that Russian troops are in Belgium.

Afternoon papers of Ghent, the correspondent says, published last Saturday a statement as follows:

"The German army has been cut at Countenberg, between Brussels and Louvain by a Belgian army reinforced by Russian troops."

His investigation confirms this, "But where these Russians are and what their numbers may be it would be indiscreet to tell," he says. Continuing, the correspondent mentions the possibility that the Russian is not the only army reinforcing the Belgians.

HALF MILLION FRESH ONES

London, September 14.—A dispatch to the Times from Paris says: "The General in command of Paris has a half million fresh troops under his control which will be used presuming in pursuing the enemy."

"News that the German force from Pont-a-Mousson to Saint Die are falling back shows that the five German armies of Generals Von Kluck, Von Buelow, Crown Prince Frederick William, the Duke of Wuertemberg and that operating in Moselle, are in retreat.

"The difficulties of the retreating army are many and there are good chances that the allies may annihilate them before they reach the frontier. The Germans appear to be abandoning their natural route, the valley of the Oise, endeavoring to withdraw further eastward to the barren and difficult country of the Champagne, where the roads are poor and provisions scant."

RETREAT ALMOST A ROUT

Paris, September 14.—It was officially announced this afternoon that the Germans still are retiring everywhere. They are abandoning all the positions which they erected to cover a possible retreat.

The official statement follows: "First, on our left wing, the enemy had prepared, to the north of Aisne, a line of defenses which it was forced to abandon. Some detachments which it had held at Amiens now have retired upon Peronne and San Quentin.

"Second, on the center, also, the Germans had taken up a defensive position behind Rheims but were unable to hold it. In the Argonne region they turned back toward the north beyond the forest. On the right wing the retreating movement of the Germans is general from Nancy to the Vosges. Yesterday evening French territory in this vicinity had been completely evacuated."

MAY NOT BOMBARD ANTWERP

London, September 14.—In a dispatch from Antwerp the correspondent of the Evening News says: "According to the German commanding officer from Aersheot, who is now in prison here, the Germans firmly believe that the Antwerp forts are no match for their 17-inch siege guns of which, he says, they have 51. The range of these guns is about 6 miles and each piece can be fired only 20 times. While confessing that the Germans are unable to spare enough men to invest Antwerp, this officer says he believes the siege guns will enable them to take a couple of the forts, thus giving access to the city. As a bombardment would be destructive to Antwerp such action is not contemplated because its harbor is too valuable an asset for Germany."

GERMANS CLAIM THEY ARE GAINING

Berlin Wireless Reports Crown Prince Has Captured Verdun and is Bombarding Other Forts — Battles in Progress Between Paris and Marne River and Near the Upper Moselle — Claim Made Russians Have Been Defeated, Losing 10,000 Men and Much Plunder.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, September 14, via wireless to the Associated Press by way of Sayville, L. I.—The headquarters of the German army in Berlin today gave out the following official report: "The German Crown Prince has captured the enemy's fortified position southwest of Verdun, and is now bombarding with heavy artillery the other forts lying to the south.

"A battle is in progress between Paris and the river Marne over a front of 125 kilometres. The Crown Prince's army is separated from the main battle by the forest of Argonne. The armies of the Crown Prince of Bavaria and General Von Heeringen are in formal battle near the upper Moselle.

"Gen. Hindenberg has defeated the Russians, has crossed the Russian frontier and up to the present time has taken 10,000 prisoners and captured 80 guns and many machine guns and aeroplanes."

Another official report issued today says: "The garrison at Antwerp has been repulsed. The Crown Prince's army is now attacking the forts between Verdun and Toul on both sides. Prince Joachim arrived today in Berlin and has been lodged in Bellevue Palace. Last night's official details of the battle to the east of Paris can not yet be made public. A new battle is in progress which up to the present has been favorable to the Germans. Reports from Paris and London of a German defeat are declared untrue.

FRENCH PURSUE ENEMY

By Associated Press.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Official dispatches today to the French Embassy from Bordeaux elaborate upon previous reports of the victorious advance of the allies.

"General Joffre tells the government that our victory is becoming more and more complete and brilliant," says the report. "The enemy is in full retreat and is abandoning prisoners, wounded, guns and ammunition.

"After a heroic effort during the formidable battle that lasted from the fifth to the twelfth, the army is pursuing the enemy in a way unparalleled by its extension and its intensity. On our left we have crossed the river Aisne below Soissons. At the center the army is north of the river Marne in the Argonne."

NEWS TICKLES THE RUSSIANS AT THE SHOW

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 14.—A Petrograd dispatch to the Central News describes a scene of tremendous enthusiasm on the first night of Imperial Grand Opera season when a bulletin, describing the destruction of the Austrian army between the rivers Bug and Dneister, was read in the middle of the performance. The Russian hymn was sung over and over again and the national anthems of the allies were also sung, while the ambassadors and ministers of those countries bowed from their boxes.

BULLETINS

London, Sept. 14.—Premier Asquith told the House of Commons today that no official information had reached the Ministry of War concerning the repeated stories that German soldiers had abused the Red Cross flag, killed and maimed the wounded and killed women and children.

Paris, September 14.—In the opinion of the best military observers here the German army, under command of Crown Prince Frederick William, is in a critical position. The French have driven the Germans from their positions north of Reims and threaten his line of retreat to the west of the Argonne region, and it is felt that he is liable to be surrounded and forced to capitulate.

Paris, Sept. 14.—In a dispatch from Petrograd the correspondent of the Havas Agency says an official communication declares that the Russian successes in Galicia are continuing.

GERMAN LINES REPORTED CUT

French Rejoicing Over Present Successes, but Realize They Are Not Decisive—Belgians Assume Offensive and Hurl Troops Against the Enemy—Germans Hoping to Capture the Fortress at Verdun. Operations of the Armies in Northern France.

Paris, Sept. 14.—German military headquarters admit defeat of their right wing army in France and omit to mention the operations on the center of the line, where the crown prince was driven back, after giving battle to the French. The Kaiser's troops have been forced to evacuate Amlens in their general retreat, and his forces are now in rapid flight at the eastern end of the battle line, where the Germans had hoped to retrieve their defeats by capturing the fortress of Verdun.

It is known that conditions bordering on panic arose in Berlin as the news of the German reverses was received. Peace talk was frequently heard.

General Joffre, commander in chief of the French forces, has sent a telegram to Alexandre Millerand, minister of war, saying: "Our victory appears more and more complete. Everywhere the enemy is in retreat, abandoning prisoners, wounded and stores."

The Germans in East Prussia are reported to have been defeated with heavy losses near Mulsent, but are still bringing up reinforcements.

King Albert of Belgium is in personal command of an army which is driving the Germans steadily toward Brussels. Dispatches from Belgium agree that the Belgian offensive movement has cleared the country of German troops for at least fifteen miles south and southeast of Antwerp. Apparently the Germans, hastening southward to reinforce their staggering troops in France, have been defeated by the Belgians near Termonde, Ghent and Lierre. The character of the news received here indicates clearly that the object of the Belgian offensive is twofold, to shatter the retreating German columns if possible and to recapture Brussels and the country to the east and south.

German Line Cut.

The line of communications used by the Germans has been reported cut and they can not make use of the lines east of the Argonne forest owing to the rapid advance of the allies on the center and right. They must, therefore, try the line through the Meuse valley and Luxemburg, it is believed.

General von Kluck's army, which a week ago was a few miles to the southeast of Paris, has retired more than sixty miles to the northeast, while on the extreme right the army of the Bavarian crown prince, which was attacking the French eastern line from Nancy to Epinal, has fallen back to the frontiers of Lorraine, permitting the French to recapture Lunville and several other towns.

The battle of the Marne, which was decided in a week, is regarded by military critics as the most marvelous reversal of roles of two armies known. In their view, it appears to have decided the first phase of the war and to have made impossible the plan which the German staff is supposed to have had of smashing the French by one comprehensive stroke and then turning the bulk of the German forces eastward to confront the Russians. The military experts, however, still are cautious. While recognizing the possibility that the German armies may yet rally and draw a strong defensive line, they recognize also the possibility of the almost complete evacuation of France and Belgium.

The victory on the Marne was received everywhere in France with overflowing joy, but also with that calm moderation and absence of exultation which has marked the national attitude since the outbreak of hostilities. The papers have no huge headlines with a note of triumph. Comments are sober and self-contained, acknowledging that the present victory, though great, is not yet finally decisive, and France must not relax one iota her efforts to pursue the advantages gained.

GERMAN LOSSES

Rotterdam, Sept. 14.—A dispatch from Berlin says that the losses sustained by the Germans, including the twenty-first casualty list, which has just been published, are given as 6,535 dead, 8,391 seriously wounded and 4,242 slightly wounded. The number of officer killed and wounded was extremely high. The ratio of the wounded to the dead was about two to one.

It is thought in Berlin that the German troops, after the hard driving which they underwent last week, have been given a rest. It being known that the French resistance along the Verdun line will be desperate. It is thought here that a single breach in the Verdun, Toul and Epinal line of fortresses and secondary forts would lead to another long advance.

OSCAR STRAUS, ACTIVE AT WASHINGTON IN BEHALF OF GERMANY. Oscar Straus, lawyer, merchant, diplomat, is taking an active interest in Germany's side of the war, as far as the United States is concerned. He visited Washington with the German ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, and urged President Wilson not to discriminate against Germany in the neutral stand that this country has taken. He claimed, among other things, that German shipping was being discriminated against, it is reported. According to some reports, Mr. Straus spoke of the possibility of the United States securing peace. As one of the most prominent sympathizers with Germany in this country, Mr. Straus may yet play an important part in any peace move. He was formerly ambassador to Turkey.

AWAKENING OF CHINA.

The Change That Came With the Downfall of the Crown.

The most tragic thing seen by Lord Bryce in China was, he said in a recent address in London, the total disregard by the people for their ancient monuments.

The revolution, "carried out by a mere handful of students trained in England, the United States and Japan," was a most remarkable phenomenon—the most remarkable perhaps in all history. China had changed. The pigtail had gone, women's feet were no longer compressed, opium had ceased to be cultivated, and, above and beyond all, the ancient system of examination for high official positions was being swept away.

The most curious things in all China were the long rows of examination cells, not big enough to allow the occupants to lie down, in which the competitors used to be interned for long periods and allowed to come out once in two or three days to stretch their legs. And the test of their merit for administrative position was the composition of poems of immense length.

No Coins With 1914 Date.

Put your hand in your pocket and see if you have any 1914 coin among your change. You haven't. Apparently the government has minted no coins of this year's date. Recently the cornerstone of the new Massachusetts state-house extension was laid at Boston by the governor of the commonwealth. An attempt was made to obtain some 1914 coins to put in the tin box which was placed inside the stone. No such coins could be found in any bank or other place of deposit in Boston, and the answer was made to the official applicants that no coins have been minted this year, or at least with this year's date. Coins of 1913 were therefore placed in the inclosure.—New York Mail.

Hookworm Disease.

In some regions in Porto Rico it is estimated that not more than 33 per cent of the natural efficiency of any force of men can be exercised because of the terrible problem of hookworm disease. Yet science has demonstrated that hookworm disease is about the most easily mastered of all the diseases in the category. It is easily cured, because in most cases simply a dose of epsom salts, followed by a dose of thymol, and that in turn by another dose of salts, is effective. Thymol is made from the common thyme of the garden.

And Not an Omen in the Sky!

In ancient days when a great war was pending there was some mystical sign of it in the heavens. This one in Europe seems to have been sprung too suddenly for omens in the sky—not a flaming sword, not a word in letters of fire, and, as for comets, twenty or thirty are to be seen through telescopes, but not one greets the naked eye of the superstitious. Omens are too slow for our bustling "civilization."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

OPERATIONS OF ALLIES

London Sept. 14.—The British war office issued the following statement on the recent operations of the allies:

"On Sept. 10 the British army, with a portion of the French forces on its left, crossed the river below Chateau Thierry, a movement which obliged the enemy's force west of Ourcq, already assailed by the French corps forming the extreme left of the allies, to give way and retreat northward in the direction of Soissons. Since Sept. 10 the whole German right wing has fallen back in considerable disorder, closely followed by French and British troops. Six thousand prisoners and 150 guns were captured on the 10th and 11th, and the enemy is reported to be continuing his retirement rapidly over the Aisne and evacuating the Soissons region.

"The British cavalry is reported today to be at Fismes, not far from Rheims, while the German right has been driven back and thrown into disorder.

"French armies farther west were strongly engaged with the German center, which had pushed forward as far as Vitry. Between the 8th and 10th our allies were unable to make much impression west of Vitry. On the 11th, however, this portion of the German army began to give way and eventually abandoned Vitry, where the enemy's line of battle was forming a salient under the impulse of French troops between the upper Marne and the Meuse. French troops are following up the enemy and driving a portion of his forces northward toward Argonne forest.

"The Third French army reports today that it has captured the entire artillery of a hostile army corps—about 160 guns. The enemy is in retreat along the whole line west of the Meuse and has suffered gravely in morale besides encountering heavy losses in personnel and material."

WHY GERMAN RIGHT RETIRED

Paris, Sept. 14.—The following communication, signed by General Von Stein, is said to have been issued at Berlin:

"The news is received from headquarters that the army situated east of Paris, which had advanced across the Marne, was attacked by superior forces of the enemy, proceeding from Paris between Meaux and Montmirail. The battle lasted two days, resulting in heavy losses on both sides. The French troops advanced and our troops retreated, followed by columns of strong, fresh French troops.

"The situation in the region of the Vosges remains without change. In eastern Prussia fighting has recommenced. The news is received from the army commanded by the crown prince that the forts south of Verdun have been bombarded since Wednesday by heavy artillery."

The Farmer's Opportunity

The weather vane of trade conditions indicates the coming year to be one of the most promising that farmers have ever known, as far as top-knotch prices for their product is concerned.

Prominent grain dealers, stock raisers and men who are familiar with conditions, as they affect the rise and fall of prices in food stuffs, seem to be all of the one opinion—that however the war in Europe affects other business, it will prove profitable to those engaged in agricultural pursuits.

A well known hog breeder of this county is responsible for the remark, "Cheap pork is a thing of the past. People of the United States will never see it again."

The great law of supply and demand again proves itself infallible in the rapidity with which wheat, selling at lower price than for years, bounded up with the first news of the war in Europe. In other farm products, prices already good, have boomed with the prospect of the enormous demand for food stuffs which will be made upon the United States this year.

Everything points to a time, and that not far distant, when the warring nations must be fed from this side of the water.

In the harvest fields of Europe, where shortly the seeds for the harvest should be planted, there is the clash of battle, and instead of looking forward to fields of ripening golden grain, nobility and peasantry alike anticipate nothing but blood and tears, whether victory or defeat; instead of a crop for the sustenance of the nations, there promises to be a crop of shattered hopes and tragic consequences. Even those most hopeful of peace on the continent can hardly expect conditions to change in time for the raising of crops.

The farm lands of Europe laid waste, her stalwart farmers on the march or in the battle field; only the women, the old or the infirm left to plant and tend, thousands upon thousands must look to America for their food supply.

Great Britain would starve in three weeks were she unable to import food. Her wheat cultivation has been curtailed until she is dependent upon the vast cargoes shipped from foreign ports.

France has more than 57 per cent of the land under cultivation and is second only to Russia in her output of cereals. The production of wheat is given first place in the order of importance. But France is now the seat of the greatest military combat ever known in the history of the world. What chance has France to plow and sow? The Angelus rings the curfew upon her peaceful pastoral life.

Russia is second only to the United States as a seller of this cereal, but Russia, crippled by the loss of thousands of men marching from quiet fields to stormy war, cannot properly tend its crops.

Germany has long ceased to be the agricultural country of a century ago, even without her present upheaval.

The world's wheat crop annually amounts to something like 3,000,000,000 bushels, of which European countries produce a little more than half.

The United States will find in the lack of production on the continent unprecedented demand for her cereals and all farm products.

One cargo of 3500 tons of beef is now on the way to England.

Even under the present uncertain trade conditions, the grain carrying record has been broken by merchant ships on the way to sea with great cargoes of wheat.

How can prices in farm products be kept from soaring under the eternal law of production and consumption?

Impoverished conditions may exist in Europe after the war, but people must eat; they can do without comforts, with scant purchases in clothing, but first and foremost man satisfies his hunger.

Europe is pre-eminently a nation of wheat eaters. Previous to 1860 rye bread was a staple food of the peasantry, but since then rye has been generally discarded for wheat bread.

In the coming months Europe will not beg for anything across the water as she will for the cereals and farm products which are the great wealth of the United States. For food she will give her last gold and the United States will answer the demand as far as lies within her possibility.

Poetry For Today

OUR FLAG.

Your flag and our flag
And how it floats today,
O'er your land and my land,
And half the world away.

Blood red and rose red,
Its stripes forever gleam;
Snow white and soul white,
The good forefather's dream.

Sky blue and true blue,
With stars that beam aright;
A gloried guidon of the day,
A shelter through the night.

Your flag and my flag—
Oh, how much it holds!
Your heart and my heart,
Secure within its folds.

Your heart and my heart,
Beat quicker at the sight;
Sun kissed and wind tossed,
The red, blue and white.

The one flag! the great flag!
The flag for me and you!
Glorified, all else beside,
The red and white and blue.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Lazy Children.

Healthy children are never lazy. If your girl or boy seems lazy call in a physician to find out the cause of the condition, for there is always a reason for it. At nine years of age a perfectly healthy looking child may be suffering from irregular heart action. This would make him tired or lazy. A growing child's strength is severely taxed all the time. When he complains he is being overtaxed or requires rest and treatment to give more strength. Many children grow so rapidly that they use up vitality, become profoundly anaemic, and if not carefully watched and treated at such a time may develop tuberculosis or an acute disease which will prove fatal.

PRESIDENT RETURNING TO CAPITAL

Muddle Over War Tax Program Shortens His Outing.

Windsor, Vt., Sept. 14.—Because of the muddle over the war tax program in congress President Wilson abandoned all thought of lengthening his vacation an extra day or two. He left here this afternoon for Washington in order to confer with House Leader Underwood concerning the protests over the plan to impose a tax on freight. That the president will take a stand against the freight proposal appears likely.

Before leaving the president attended to several pending matters, including consideration of his replies to the recent protests of Emperor William and President Poincare and the war tax problem. He kept in close touch with Washington, hoping to get some news that possibilities of American mediation in the European situation were developing. Nothing, however, indicated that Germany or the other nations are actively interested in the subject at this time.

Majority Leader Underwood, who withheld the revenue bill which would tax beer, wines and freight bills, plans to see President Wilson upon his return from New Hampshire and to ask his open espousal of the proposed freight tax. Underwood will explain to the president that there is considerable opposition to the plan within the party and that opponents of the measure propose to demand a party caucus and to fight for defeat of the freight tax. They want substitute a larger tax on beer, a tax on whiskies and distilled liquors which was not contemplated in the ways and means committee bill, and perhaps stamp and inheritance taxes.

OSCAR STRAUS CALLS ON T. R.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Oscar Straus came to Sagamore Hall and spent several hours with Colonel Roosevelt. When asked if his visit had anything to do with getting the colonel's aid in the peace measures which Mr. Straus is said to be undertaking, the latter replied, "Absolutely no."

In view of the recent conferences which Mr. Straus has had with foreign ambassadors to this country and with Secretary of State Bryan in Washington and Colonel Roosevelt's friendship for the kaiser, Mr. Straus' meeting with Colonel Roosevelt is regarded as highly significant.

Domitian Swatted Flies.

The original "swat the fly" man was Domitian, Roman emperor from 81 to 96 A. D. History records little good of Domitian, but it does say that he anticipated the anti-fly movement by more than 1,800 years. Maltreating the buzzing pests was his favorite amusement, it is recorded, but he was not animated by a desire to save babies' lives or avert epidemics.

One biographer says of the old Roman that "one of his favorite pastimes was hunting and killing flies," and Suetonius, the famous historian, wrote thus of Domitian: "In the beginning of his reign he used to spend daily an hour by himself in private, during which time he did nothing else but catch flies and stick them through the body with a sharp pin."—New York Tribune.

Finished splitting the winter's rails—about sixty. Have never been able to determine whether they split best from top or butt. Sometimes one succeeds, sometimes the other. In splitting posts the usual plan is for the men to face each other, one slowly advancing while the other backs away and the blow of each into the cleft loosening his partner's ax.—From "A Farmer's Note Book."

TALKING AT DINNER.

A Chinese Suggestion That One Person Should Do It All.

As a rule, a dinner conversation is seldom worth remembering, which is a pity. Man, the most sensible of all animals, more readily lends to nonsense than to rational discourse. Perhaps the flow of words may be as steady as the eastward flow of the Yangtze in my own country, but the memory remains only a recollection of a vague, undefined—what? The conversation, like the flavors provided by the cooks, has been evanescent.

Why should not hostesses make as much effort to stimulate the minds of their guests as they do to gratify their palates? What a boon it would be to many a bashful man sitting next to a woman with whom he has nothing in common if some public entertainer during the dinner relieved him from the necessity of always thinking as to what he should say next! How much more he could enjoy the fine dinners his hostess has provided—and as for the woman, what a number of suppressed yawns she might avoid!

To take great pains and spend large sums to provide tasty food for people who cannot enjoy it because they have to talk to one another seems a pity. Let one man talk to the crowd and leave them leisure to eat is my suggestion.—Wu Ting Fang, Late Chinese Minister to United States, in Harper's Monthly.

WEIGHT OF AIR.

One Cubic Foot of Atmosphere Weighs More Than an Ounce.

The common belief that air weighs nothing or almost nothing, a belief which has given rise to the simile "light as air," needs correction.

A toy balloon filled with a cubic foot of air weighs 564 grains more than the same balloon collapsed. This shows that the weight of a cubic foot of air is 564 grains, which is a good deal more than an ounce. Accordingly a small room (15 by 15 by 10) containing 2,250 cubic feet of air would weigh 2,500 ounces, or 156.25 pounds avoirdupois, as much as a large man. Could you lift a room full of air?

The air in an automobile tire under pressure of 150 pounds a square inch weighs proportionally ten times as much, while air under the pressure of fifty atmospheres weighs fifty times as much as an equal volume of ordinary air. When air is liquefied its volume is reduced to one sixteen-hundredth normal, so that the liquid is 1,600 times as heavy as gaseous air, or about as heavy as water.—St. Louis Post Dis

Germany Is Now Unflinchingly Facing More Than Half the World

By HANIEL VON HAIMHAUSEN, Counselor of German Embassy in Washington

HISTORY is repeating itself in the present situation. On Sept. 2, 1870, during the Franco-Prussian war, the American papers, misled by dispatches from Europe, published the story of a French victory at Sedan. On the following day the French capitulated.

GERMANY IS NOW UNFLINCHINGLY FACING MORE THAN HALF THE WORLD. SHE IS CUT OFF FROM MEANS OF COMMUNICATION WITH THIS COUNTRY, AND, PENDING THE RECEIPT OF REAL FACTS, I ASK ALL AMERICANS TO WITHHOLD JUDGMENT BOTH AS TO THE CAUSES OF THE WAR AND THE PROBABLE RESULTS.

CARRIES BIG GUN AND MAKES DRE THREATS UPON ENEMY

Oscar Gilmore, of this city, was placed under arrest Saturday night for carrying concealed weapons, and when he was searched an ugly 38-caliber gun of somewhat ancient appearance was taken from his pocket and placed in the storeroom at police headquarters.

Gilmore was locked up and Monday morning was escorted to the courtroom to face Mayor Coffey upon the serious charge against him.

He admitted carrying the gun, but stated he did not know it was loaded, or that he had flourished the gun and made threats, as charged against him.

Gilmore stated that he had placed the gun in his pocket for the purpose of trading it to a man for a pistol of smaller calibre. He admitted, however, of having been drinking, and also that there was a man with whom he was on bad terms.

After telling a number of stories, which were somewhat conflicting, the man was given a fine of $50 and the costs, and $40 of the amount was suspended pending good behavior.

It is claimed that the man showed the gun while near the fountain on the court house lawn Saturday night, and made threats of using it upon a certain man. The police were notified of the man's actions, and he was arrested.

With the gun, every chamber of which was loaded, the man carried a liberal supply of extra cartridges purchased Saturday night.

UNION SERVICES HELD LAST NIGHT

A large audience attended the Union Temperance meeting at Grace church Sunday night, when the First Baptist church and M. E. church united for the evening services.

Dr. McElfresh, who was pastor of Grace church when the new building was erected, made the principal address of the evening, followed by Rev. A. W. West and Rev. F. E. Ross. The three ministers spoke on the liquor question, and the need of constant work to prevent the adoption of amendments offered by the liquor interests, and the same work to insure the success of the proposed amendments initiated by the temperance workers.

ALL SCHOOLS PAY TRIBUTE TO KEY

Promptly at nine o'clock Monday morning, every pupil in every school in the county and state arose and the stirring words and melody of "The Star Spangled Banner" was wafted out upon the air as a tribute to the man who, 100 years ago, wrote the words to "The Star Spangled Banner", the immortal Francis Scott Key.

In each school a brief history of the famous song and the author was given by the teacher. In some schools other patriotic songs were sung, and the centennial of the national anthem was otherwise appropriately observed.

GILLIS IS FINED GETS OFF EASY

Will Gillis, the young colored man who was arrested for tapping the till at the McClellan grocery, was Monday morning fined $50 and the costs and the fine suspended upon his promise to never again stray from the straight and narrow path.

The man also paid Mr. McClellan $3.45, the sum which he had removed from the cash drawer previous to the time when he was caught in the act of relieving the till of another handful of coin.

Gillis promised good behavior, and the fine was suspended to be enforced when occasion demands.

FIRST MINISTERS REACH CITY TODAY

Between 25 and 35 ministers had arrived in the city up to Monday afternoon late, and Tuesday is expected to bring a great many more to the city to be present at the formal opening of Conference Wednesday morning.

The Board of Examiners and undergraduates comprise the first arrivals. Included in the Board of Examiners, who arrived Monday are: Rev. Freeman, Columbus; Rev. Jackson, Hilliards; Rev. Scott, of Portsmouth; Rev. Hargrave, of Chillicothe; Rev. Elston, Marietta and Rev. Watson, of Jackson.

Tuesday will be occupied with Conference examinations in the Presbyterian church, and the Conference entertainment at Grace M. E. church at night.

W. C. T. U. WILL AID BY RAISING FUNDS

At the meeting of those interested in the formation of a temperance organization, Saturday afternoon, those present subscribed nearly $200 to start the work, and contributions will be received by Treasurer Frank Jackson. These may be sent to him by mail.

It was announced that the W. C. T. U., at its recent county convention, anticipated the need of finances for conducting the fight for the temperance amendments, and each local organization in the county pledged financial aid, to be obtained by entertainments.

A vote of thanks was extended to the W. C. T. U. for their generous offer.

ANOTHER ARRESTED FOR BOOTLEGGING

Robert Martin, colored, was arrested by Bell and Baughn Saturday night, on a charge of furnishing intoxicants to one Chas. Monroe.

The charge was preferred against the man by Chief Moore, upon the testimony of Monroe.

Martin admitted giving Monroe a drink, but claimed that he was not aware that it was contrary to law.

The man faced Mayor Coffey Monday morning, and after he had been questioned for a short time, was remanded back to jail to await further examination.

WATCH YOUR HORSES TWO MORE STOLEN

A horse and buggy was stolen from Xenia Saturday night, and another horse and buggy was stolen at South Charleston about the same time. So far the thieves have not been apprehended.

The outfit stolen in Xenia was valued at $400, while that in South Charleston was valued at $250.

Horse thieves are unusually busy at the present time, and may be expected to operate in this city and county at any time, as testified by the recent thefts.

DEEP INTEREST IN RURAL SCHOOLS

County Superintendent, Frank M. Allen, reports that the interest manifested in the rural schools is much greater than ever before, and that the new system is meeting with great approval as patrons of the schools become more and more familiar with it.

All over the county a great deal of interest is shown, with virtually every one ready to do all they can in aiding the schools.

The sanitary conditions surrounding rural schools, which have long not always received the attention necessary, are already being given attention by the Superintendent and County Board of Education, with the ultimate result that conditions will be decidedly improved in that way as well as in many others.

ONE DEATH DUE TO DIPHTHERIA

Schools at Staunton Are Closed This Morning Following Appearance of the Black Diphtheria Which Causes One Death and Results in Critical Illness of Another.

As a precaution against further spread of what is said to be an outbreak of black diphtheria, the public schools at Staunton were closed Monday morning to remain closed until further danger of the disease is past.

The closing of the schools is a result of the death Friday night of Nancy Ellen, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson, who passed away after a very short illness from the dreaded disease and was buried at Staunton Sunday. Another child, Roberta, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, is now in a critical condition with the disease, according to reports received Monday.

It is claimed that the disease is diphtheria in its worst form, and precautionary measures are being taken, such as closing all public meeting places and the use of anti-toxin.

The appearance of the epidemic has caused no little excitement around Staunton, and it is feared that a further spread of the disease may occur notwithstanding the efforts made to stop it.

MANSLAUGHTER IS FACED BY BASTIBLE

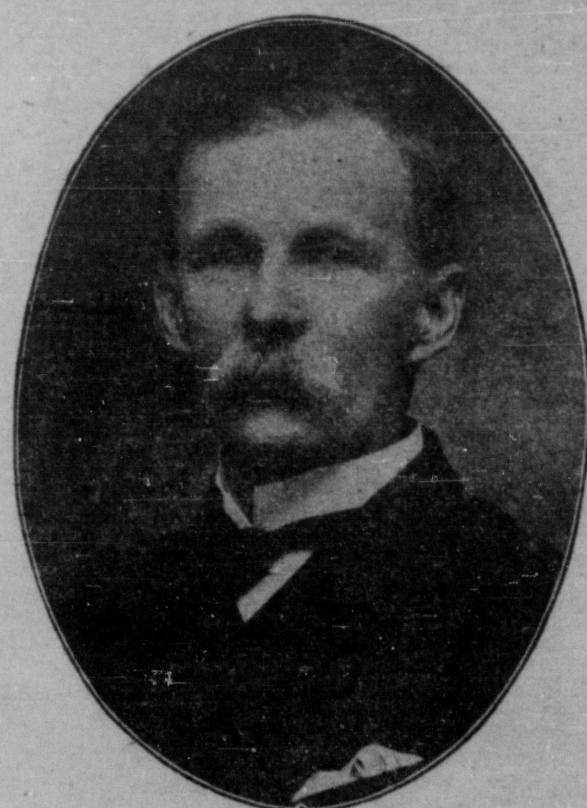

James Bastible, the Bainbridge man who was arrested in Springfield for the death of Harry Walthall, has been charged with man-slaughter.

A number of witnesses testified that they saw Bastible kick the man whom he had knocked down. A kick in the head is said to have caused his death.

Bastible is to be arraigned at once and it is expected that he will be bound over to the grand jury on the charge of manslaughter.

One of the proprietors of the cigar store in which the trouble occurred, was arrested for keeping a gambling device. It is claimed that the trouble leading to Walthall's

Mrs. Frank E. Haines, of the Creek road, gave her eleven-year-old daughter, Beata, a beautiful birthday party Saturday afternoon.

The large verandah of the handsome country home was picturesquely decorated with some flowers, and in spacious rooms a brilliant scarlet and white color scheme was most effective.

Clusters of graceful scarlet salvia and bowls of scarlet dahlias formed decoration in the dining room, lighted with red and white candles. The birthday cake bore the name of the winsome young hostess and the date in red.

Mrs. Haines was assisted by her daughters, Misses Ivah and Juanita, in serving a delicious luncheon.

A dozen little girls spent a very happy afternoon, most of it spent in out-door games.

AUSTRIAN ARMIES ARE SURROUNDED

Sixty Thousand Prisoners Reported Taken By Russians.

INVADING FORCES CRUSHED

Complete Defeat of the Austrian Armies in Russian Poland and Galicia Claimed by the Russian War Office. Germans in East Prussia Reported to Have Been Driven Back, but Are Being Reinforced.

London, Sept. 14.—Defeat of the Austrians in Galicia after a desperate battle with the Russians lasting seventeen days was reported from St. Petersburg, following news of the capture of 120,000 Austrians as the result of the complete crushing of the invading forces in Russian Poland, which have fled beyond the San river. Both Austrian armies are surrounded and their surrender is imminent, it is reported.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that the German forces in East Prussia have been driven back with great losses near Mulshents, but are still bringing up fresh reinforcements. The Germans are making their chief efforts in the region of the Mauersee lakes.

Another dispatch from St. Petersburg says: "Two Austrian armies have been surrounded and 60,000 prisoners have been taken, including 500 officers from one army and 600 from another. The surrender of both armies is impending. The Germans are again moving troops from the east to the west."

A dispatch from Paris says: "The Matin learns from St. Petersburg that the First Austrian army under General von Aulenberg has lost 300 officers, 28,000 soldiers and 400 guns, and that the Second Austrian army has lost as prisoners 500 officers and 70,000 men. The Russian victory is considered to be absolutely decisive." The French government received this report: "The battle which has been fought in Galicia during the past seventeen days has ended with a great victory for the Russian army. The Austrians are in retreat along the whole front, leaving in the hands of the Russians a large number of prisoners and supplies."

Russians near Lemberg. From that moment it became evident that if the Austrian right flank could not continue a stubborn resistance, the retreat of the main army from South Poland would be imperiled by the capture of Tomaszow. On Sept. 10 it is probable that the Russians drove a wedge through the Austrian line. Sept. 13 a brilliant Russian victory is reported, in which 30,000 prisoners and several hundred guns were taken, and this is probably the immediate result of the Tomaszow action."

AUSTRIANS SURROUNDED?

St. Petersburg, Sept. 14.—Two Austrian armies have been surrounded and 60,000 prisoners taken, including 500 officers of one army and 600 of the other. Surrender of both armies is said to be impending.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Six Hurt in Auto Accident.

Fremont, O., Sept. 14.—Miss Florence Hard, twenty-seven, of Painesville, was perhaps fatally injured, and William Halbeisen suffered a dislocated hip in an auto accident west of Fremont. His wife, daughter Gertrude, son Harry and Margaret, a niece, all sustained painful injuries.

Municipal Saloon Planned.

St. Clairsville, O., Sept. 14.—Mingo Junction, Jefferson county, one of the two oases that supply dry Belmont and Jefferson counties and West Virginia, may have a municipal saloon. A census has just been taken that under the Ohio law will allow a ninth saloon to be opened in the place, and council may ask for the license, thus having the only municipal saloon in the state.

Traction Company Wins.

Toledo, Sept. 14.—An injunction was granted by Judge John M. Killits in district federal court restraining the city from enjoining the 3 cent streetcar fare ordinance, which became effective March 27 last. The court found that it was confiscatory and causing loss to the Toledo Railways and Light company.

CRITICISES CANNY ANDY

Bordeaux, Sept. 14.—M. Clemenceau has a remarkable article in the Homme Libre. The article attacks the substance of Von Bethmann-Hollweg's manifesto.

A considerable portion of the article is devoted to Andrew Carnegie. "Mr. Carnegie," M. Clemenceau says, "an excellent philanthropist on whom the Kaiser has bestowed flattering attentions, pleads timidly the cause of Emperor William, alleging that he deserves credit and that Europe owes to him the forty year peace. The good Scotch multi-millionaire talks glibly. The forty years of peace was punctuated by incessant quarrels and five menaces of war and was crowned by an effective war for which I defy Mr. Carnegie to find any other reason than the Kaiser's desire to crush French independence and overcome England and Russia."

ORDER OF THE IRON CROSS.

Famous Badge For Bravery in Battle Revived by the Kaiser.

Shortly after the opening of hostilities the German Kaiser, following the precedent established by William I., reinstituted the famous Order of the Iron Cross. The New Yorker Staats-Zeitung furnishes an interesting history of this coveted mark of distinction, which is awarded solely for the performance of deeds of the highest valor on the field of battle.

King Frederick William III. of Prussia founded the order on March 10, 1813, as a reward for services rendered to the fatherland in the Napoleonic wars. The plainness of the iron insignia was intended to remind its wearers of the hard times that had brought it into being. It was a small iron Maltese cross inscribed with a narrow silver band just inside the beveled edge. The only other marks upon it were three oak leaves in the center, the royal initials F. W. surmounted by a small crown and the date 1813. As is customary in the case of royal orders, there were two classes and a grand cross, the latter twice the regular size. In 1841 a permanent endowment was added, paying fixed annual sums to the wearers of the decoration.

On July 19, 1870, the day that France again declared war on Prussia, the order was revived by King William I. on the same conditions as originally instituted. At that time the three oak leaves were dropped, and the letter W, the crown and the date 1870 were substituted for the original marks, but the three leaves were restored by an order of the imperial council in 1895. The decoration as revised in 1870 has been bestowed on 48,574 German warriors of all classes, including those coming from German states outside of Prussia.

A New War Explosive.

A new submarine mine explosive called "trotol," which cannot be set off by percussion, but which has to be confined and fired by electricity, was employed in the recent annual war test of submarine mines off Sandy Hook. Trotol, it is declared, can be melted and handled without any danger. Mines loaded with 100 pounds of the new explosive and fired during the recent test threw columns of water and pieces of targets 250 feet to 350 feet in the air. Each mine was allowed to remain in the water two hours before being exploded in order to test the water tight joints in the cable containing the firing circuit.—Electrical World.

Mines.

Nine mines in ten the world over are richer in the first 1,000 feet than in the second, but few are worth operating below 3,000 feet.

A LAME BACK-KIDNEY TROUBLE CAUSES IT.

And it will give you even worse if not checked. Mrs. H. T. Strayner, Gainesville, Ga., was fairly down on her back with kidney trouble and inflamed bladder. She says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills and now my back is stronger than in years, and both kidney and bladder troubles are entirely gone." Blackmer & Tanquary, adv.

"ATLANTIC CITY" POUNDING SHOALS

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 14.—Rising and falling upon a heavy sea, the steamship Atlantic City, inbound from New York with thirty-one passengers on board, is pounding the shoals in the inlet with a thirty-mile gale blowing. The big liner is owned by Warren Webster of Camden.

Mined the Simplon Tunnel.

Both Italy and Switzerland have adopted measures to fortify the entrances of the famous Simplon tunnel. Near the middle of the tunnel, a few yards from the Swiss frontier, Italian engineers have put in place a double iron door that can resist the rush of an express train proceeding at the rate of sixty miles an hour. The iron door is worked by electricity from Iselle, the station at the Italian end of the tunnel, and under ordinary conditions it is hidden in the rocky side of the tunnel. The door is carefully tested once a week. The mines are connected with Brigue and Iselle by electrical devices, so that by the mere pressure of a button the Simplon tunnel could be destroyed in a second.—New York Independent.

Curious Water Supply.

A curious form of water hole is found in the deserts of Western Australia. The hole is dry by day, but yields an abundant supply of water by night. The flow of water is preceded by weird hissing and sounds of rushing air.

OUR NAUTICAL ALMANAC.

It is issued by Uncle Sam and Costs Him $5,000 a Year.

It costs the government $5,000 a year to get out the nautical almanac, which is authority on nautical questions all over the world, and the cost probably would be greater, so far as the United States is concerned, but for the fact that there is in operation a sort of mutual plan, under which other nations do a part of the work, all of them getting the benefit of the publication.

The nautical almanac contains computations for three years in advance. For instance, this year the naval observatory is getting out data for the year 1917, and next year it will get out the data for 1918.

This is due to the fact that years ago, when sailing vessels went around the world and when there was no Suez canal to shorten the route, it was necessary for them to have nautical almanacs for considerably longer periods of time than the year of sailing. As a rule, these sailing voyages lasted from two to three years.

"It is, of course, not now necessary to issue the almanac three years in advance," says Captain Joseph L. Jayne, superintendent of the naval observatory, "but the old law has never been changed. In the days of the sailing vessels all the maritime nations provided by law for the issue of nautical almanacs from three to five years in advance. A similar law passed by the American congress is still in force."

Captain Jayne points out that Great Britain, France, Germany, Spain and Italy are the other nations, in addition to the United States, that issue nautical almanacs.—New York Press.

OBLIGING METERS.

New Scheme For Regulating the Light From Electric Bulbs.

An ingenious watchdog meter has now appeared to make more satisfactory the electric lighting of a home by a fixed number of lamps for a fixed sum a month. This method of buying electricity is not general, though it is coming into wider use for small homes, but one of its drawbacks is that if the householder contracts to pay for five lamps at so much a month, to be burned as frequently as desired, extra lights are not available for any evenings when special illumination is wanted, such as in times of entertaining or sickness.

The watchdog meter will permit the extra illumination just when desired, provided it is not done too often. Ordinarily the meter permits only a fixed amount of electricity to be used as provided by the contract. When extra lamps are wanted a bulb on the meter is tilted, and this permits more electricity to come through. Then when the extra lights are no longer needed the bulb is tilted back, or if it is not tilted back it will go back automatically in a few hours.

When the bulb is tilted up a liquid flows from one part of the meter to another, and once all the liquid has flowed through—something after the idea of an hourglass—the meter will refuse to grant any more extra light until a collector from the company has called to make an adjustment.—Saturday Evening Post.

But It Is Easier.

If it were only easier to smile and praise than it is to growl and criticize many a rough mile of life's journey would be smoothed.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

BELGIANS AGGRESSIVE

Bordeaux, Sept. 14.—The Belgian army has resumed a strong offensive before Antwerp, driving the Germans beyond Louvain and to the south-east. An important engagement has been fought on the right bank of the Scheldt, the Germans hastily retreating. Other Belgian successes have been gained near Termonde and Ghent and the vicinity of these places has been entirely cleared of the enemy.

TURK ACT HITS BRITISH TRADE

Turkish Government Adopts High Protective Tariff.

TO FOSTER HOME INDUSTRIES

Rate Scale Drafted So as to Secure the Absolute Maximum of Revenue. Remunerative Enterprises to Be Taken Over by the Government as Monopolies—Turkish Plans More Comprehensive Than Supposed.

London, Sept. 14.—The Turkish demand for the abolition of the capitulations is more comprehensive than has been generally supposed. The demand not merely is for the abolition of the capitulations, but for entire freedom with respect to customs. The Ottoman public debt is not affected.

In other words, Turkey demands the abolition of foreign postoffices, the cancellation of all privileges with respect to the exemption from taxation now enjoyed by foreigners; complete subjection to the Turkish courts of all foreign subjects now tried by the consuls; the cessation of all privileges enjoyed by all foreign missions and educational establishments.

Hitherto the powers have not permitted an increase in the Turkish customs unless by consent above a scale on file. This scale until recently was 8 per cent; then it was increased to 11 per cent, and when war broke out negotiations were under discussion to raise this by mutual arrangement to 14 per cent. On this consent of the powers to a larger increase rested the whole structure of the recent treaties regarding the Baghdad railway to the Persian gulf. These are now invalidated or wrecked. It is announced by a high authority that Turkey intends to run a high protective tariff for the encouragement of home industries, so drafted as to secure the absolute maximum of revenue and also placing the remunerative industries in the hands of the government as monopolies. This will hit many established industries in Turkey and will vitally affect British trade, especially in Lancashire cotton goods. Another and more serious effect will be that it will liberate a large sum for military and naval purposes and provide necessary funds for enterprises of the kind adopted by the Germans with such success in Asia Minor.

England will stand for the inviolability of international engagements of all nations vitally interested under the most favored nation clause.

SHORTSTOP MILLER OF THE CARDINALS HAS IMPROVED IN HIS NEW POSITION

St. Louis, Sept. 14.—Jack Miller used to be a first baseman when he was with the Pittsburgh Pirates. He also played second base at times, but his principal station was at the first sack. Miller Huggins got him last winter, tried him for a time at first base early in the season and then decided that Miller was a shortstop. So he shifted Jack, and the shift proved to be a good move. Miller is playing an excellent game in the difficult position, and he has also improved in batting.

TRICKY TRANSPORTATION.

His Travel Was Enlivened by a Musical Accompaniment.

When war is in the air on the continent of Europe a man who is liable for military service often finds it very difficult to escape from the country. In the Wide World Magazine T. J. Thomas tells the story of the escape of one Petru Cocan from Hungary when on account of the Balkan crisis the decree had gone forth that no man between the ages of sixteen and fifty-two should leave the country without a passport.

Cocan, who was a Roumanian by birth and had lived in America, could not get a passport. He then went to the agent of a transatlantic line and bought a ticket for America on the assurance that the agent would get him out of the country. After several days of suspense Cocan, with three other fugitives, was sent to a place near the border, where they were met according to agreement by a band of Roumanians disguised as gypsy musicians, four of whom carried huge bass viols. The backs were removed from the viols, and in each there was a small seat. Cocan and his fellow fugitives took their places, the backs were fastened on the viols, and again the musicians set out for the border. All passed the guard safely except Cocan. His bearer got into a dispute with a soldier of the guard, the quarrel waxed violent, the bass viol fell to the ground, the back came off, and Cocan landed in a ditch by the roadside. He was arrested and sent home again.

He tried the same trick again, but on a different road and at a place on the border far removed from the first attempt. This time he made his escape, but as the musicians were crossing the border the soldiers of the guard demanded a tune, and Cocan endured the agony of sitting inside a bass viol while it was played upon. The noise in the narrow space was deafening. After his many adventures Cocan arrived safely at Canton, O.

HAUGHTY DUSKY ROYALTY.

When This King Waved His Toes the Insulted Guest Fled.

There was much ceremony observed at the African king's court, says John H. Weeks in his book, "Among the Primitive Bakongo." No one approaches him without first seeking his permission, and no one is allowed to sit on a chair in his presence except his sons and nephews.

Ordinary men approaching the king had to kneel three times—once just inside the last entrance to the king's enclosure, then near the door of the "palace" and lastly immediately in front of his majesty. And the last time they knelt they put the palms of their hands together, rubbed their little fingers in the dirt and then transferred the dirt from their little fingers to their foreheads or temples and clapped their hands. This ceremony they repeated three times at the last kneeling place, and the king answered by putting the palms of his hands across each other, with the fingers of the right hand well above the thumb and index finger of the left hand, and waving them. If the king did not answer thus or if he

ALL STARS COP BACON

Billy Hedgecock's Columbus Aggregation Puts One Over on the Athletics in a Stiff Battle—Score 6 to 5

The result of a stiff and exciting contest at Athletic park Sunday afternoon proclaimed a victory over the Athletics by the handy All Stars of Columbus, under the direction of Billy Hedgecock, old Washington catcher.

The game was marked by good, steady play and few features unless the absence of glaring errors could be so termed. The All Stars, in the nine frames, succeeded in laying by six scores, while the Athletics garnered but five.

Things looked bad in the first inning when the visitors pulled in four of their scores, but after that the boys settled down into steady form.

When Billy Hedgecock, old Washington C. H. backstop, stepped up to the plate at Athletic park Sunday afternoon as leader of the opposing Columbus All Stars, he was greeted with an enthusiastic burst of applause from the lines and before the old timer could gain his composure he was thrown into another panic when Walter Evans stepped up to the plate and presented him a love offering from "The Washington Fans" in the form of a handsome silk umbrella.

Billy could do nothing but stammer his appreciation, but he did that profusely. The work of the old timer Sunday showed that he has lost nothing of his former prowess on the diamond and it was difficult to distinguish at times whether the fans were cheering for the Athletics or for Billy Hedgecock.

Tuesday the Athletics start out on their visiting tour.

The box score of Sunday's game follows:

OFFICIAL BRITISH STATEMENT

London, September 14.—Important details of the operations of the British army in France are contained in a report which the War Office issued this afternoon. When the German army began its eastward movement to cut the French center, according to General French, it was ignoring the British as a factor in the fight. The allies began a general advance on September 7 against the German rear guard of their right wing which had been left along the river Oureq. The British army was reinforced. The Germans began a retirement on their right on the 7th. It was the first time that they had turned back since the battle of Mons.

According to letters found on prisoners they had expected to enter Paris in a few days. The order to retreat was a bitter disappointment. The British crossed the river Marne on the 9th with the French and on the 10th captured 1500 men, four great guns, six machine guns and 50 transport wagons. The Germans of the right army seemed demoralized. They were without food and surrendered readily, according to the British report.

The continued advance General French says, has delighted the troops, who, with the reinforcements received, are filled with zeal and anxious to press on.

BREAK DOWN STUBBORN RESISTANCE

London, September 14.—Official Press Bureau this afternoon issued the following statement: "All day yesterday the enemy stubbornly disputed the passage of the Aisne by our troops but in spite of the difficulty of forcing the river in the face of a strong opposition nearly all the crossings were secured by sunset. On our right and left the French troops were confronted with a similar task in which, like ourselves, they were successful. Many more prisoners were taken. It is reported from the French headquarters that the German Crown Prince's army has been driven back and that he has moved his headquarters from St. Menchould to Mont Sacon.

PAUPERS COST THE COUNTY $9,944 DURING FISCAL YEAR

Total Cost of Keeping the Helpless at County Infirmary Reaches $7,517.57, but Produce From Infirmary Farm Not Included—Other Interesting Figures.

According to reports on file at the County Auditor's office the total amount paid by Fayette county for the support of paupers during the fiscal year ending September 1, 1914, reached $9,944.43. However, the revenue from the County Infirmary farm during that period is not included in the actual outlay of money. The total cost to support the inmates of the infirmary, reached $7,517.57, and the cost of keeping paupers otherwise supported by the county for the year, reaches $2,426.86.

BELGAINS IN 3 DAY BATTLE

By Associated Press.
London, September 14.—Dispatches from Antwerp relate that the fighting by the Belgian force, which went out from Antwerp last Friday, lasted for three days, day and night. There was a heavy engagement among the ruins of Louvain, the Belgians penetrating twice to the center of the city. Yesterday the Belgians delivered a fierce cavalry attack on the Germans at Louvain.

RIVER BOAT GOES UNDER

By Associated Press.
Gallipolis, O., Sept. 14.—The steamer, Greenwood, was sunk in the Ohio river near Crown City, a few miles below here, today, after striking a hidden obstruction. The passengers and crew were rescued without trouble and brought to this city. The boat is owned by the Green Line company, of Cincinnati, and was on her way from Cincinnati to Charleston, W. Va.

CAT HAD RABIES

A cat suffering from hydrophobia attacked and inflicted a bite upon the hand of Mrs. Emmitt Clark, of Chillicothe, a few days ago.

On the first Monday in September, 1913, the infirmary had 40 inmates, 26 of whom were men and 14 women. The number admitted for the year ending the first Monday in the present month, was 14. Total number supported during year was 54, consisting of 36 men and 18 women. Five died during the year, and eight were discharged, so that at the present time the number is 41, 30 of whom are men.

The average cost of keeping the inmates of the Children's Home was $166.01 each, and the average number in the home was 36.

During the year ending September 1, 1914, $529 was paid to soldiers, sailors and marines, and $3,367 to wives and widows, making a total of $3,896.

After the animal's head had been examined at Columbus and a report that the animal had been suffering from the rabies, had been returned, Mrs. Clark immediately made arrangements to take the Pasteur treatment.

NORMAL SCHOOL TO OPEN OCTOBER 5TH

The county Normal school, which was awarded to Jeffersonville, will open October 5th, and all who expect to become teachers will have the opportunity of taking the course required by law.

So far the instructor for the Normal school has not been employed, but will probably be employed within the next few days.

Jeffersonville has taken hold of the new school and announces that arrangements have been made to defray the expenses of the school until January 1st, when the state pays for the teacher.

It is expected that quite a number of those who later expect to teach will be enrolled in the course at Jeffersonville.

COUNCIL TO MEET AT 7:30 TONIGHT

Council will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock, and a number of important questions will come before the city solons.

One of these questions is the matter of submitting to the voters of the city the matter of building a new sewerage system.

Another question, which will, in all probability be taken up, is that of completing the fill through Paint creek bottom so that the new street can be used. As the street now stands it is not in condition to be used, although there is an ever increasing demand for the roadway.

North North street will probably receive some attention, owing to the very bad condition of that street. Repair before winter sets in is in great demand.

PREPARING FOR THE NEW 'PHONES

Linemen in the employ of the Washington Home Telephone Company, now a branch of the Ohio State Telephone Company, are rapidly completing the work of stringing new insulated wires from the lead wires to the phones throughout the city, so that when the new telephone instruments are installed all that will be necessary will be the removal of the old phone and the attaching of the new instrument.

To date the new instruments and switchboard has not been purchased by the company.

Cats and Wildcats.

Wild cats are now rarities in Europe, though formerly they were comparatively common in most parts of the continent. The few survivors occur mostly in Hungary and occasionally in Spain and Greece. In Spain, by the way, the animals build nests in trees or among tall bamboos for the rearing of their young, though generally they prefer a crevice in a rocky country in which to make a lair. Our domesticated cat is not derived from the untamable European animal, but was introduced ready tamed from Egypt.—London Mail.

As to "Sights."

A teacher of English criticised an essay written by a girl pupil in which the girl used the word "eyesight." "What other kind of sight could there be except 'eyesight'?" asked the teacher.

Rising to the challenge, the pupil replied, "Well, there are foresight and hindsight."—Indianapolis News.

Supreme Crash of Arms May Occur at Any Time

Victory in "The Battle of The Ages" Claimed by British and French. While the Five German Armies Abandon Their Positions and Retreat.

FEAR RESULTS SHOULD ENEMY COVER RETREAT

Russians Reinforce Belgians and Unite in Attacks on Germans — Hinted That Other Nations Do Likewise—500,000 Fresh French Troopers Ready to Attack Fleeing Germans — Will Endeavor to Destroy Kaiser's Forces.

By Associated Press.

London, September 14.—The first stage of the battle of the Marne, which, from the numbers of fighting men engaged, the extent of the line of battle and the terrific struggle, is perhaps correctly described as "the battle of the ages" appears to have been won by the French and British armies, but the main German army is still intact and the supreme crash is still to come.

The present week may see even more desperate encounters than any that have yet taken place. Metz, the capital of Lorraine, and the chain of forts thence to Diedenhofen, seventeen miles north of Metz, form a strong pivot from the German left while the rivers and the dense forests on the frontier, together with the strategic roads, give the German army, if invasion now is retreat, a splendid opportunity for defensive action should the French pursuit extend this far. Military observers foresee all kinds of perplexing possibilities in the event of the Germans regaining the positions they held before they started the rush of 1,500,000 men to Paris, particularly should they succeed in taking back any large proportion of their forces.

Reports concerning the fighting in Russian Poland and Galicia are conflicting. It appears that the Austrians have met serious reverses, but continued struggles establish that they have not been completely overwhelmed by the Russians.

The Servians claim continued successes against the Austrians, the greater part of whose armies are engaged with Russians to the north.

NATIONS REINFORCE BELGIANS

London, September 14.—In a dispatch from Ghent, the correspondent of the Daily News says that after two days of investigation he has confirmed a statement that Russian troops are in Belgium.

Afternoon papers of Ghent, the correspondent says, published last Saturday a statement as follows:

"The German army has been cut at Countenberg, between Brussels and Louvain by a Belgian army reinforced by Russian troops."

His investigation confirms this, "But where these Russians are and what their numbers may be it would be indiscreet to tell," he says. Continuing, the correspondent mentions the possibility that the Russian is not the only army reinforcing the Belgians.

HALF MILLION FRESH ONES

London, September 14.—A dispatch to the Times from Paris says: "The General in command of Paris has a half million fresh troops under his control which will be used presuming in pursuing the enemy."

"News that the German force from Pont-a-Mousson to Saint Die are falling back shows that the five German armies of Generals Von Kluck, Von Buelow, Crown Prince Frederick William, the Duke of Wuertemberg and that operating in Moselle, are in retreat.

"The difficulties of the retreating army are many and there are good chances that the allies may annihilate them before they reach the frontier. The Germans appear to be abandoning their natural route, the valley of the Oise, endeavoring to withdraw further eastward to the barren and difficult country of the Champagne, where the roads are poor and provisions scant."

RETREAT ALMOST A ROUT

Paris, September 14.—It was officially announced this afternoon that the Germans still are retiring everywhere. They are abandoning all the positions which they erected to cover a possible retreat.

The official statement follows: "First, on our left wing, the enemy had prepared, to the north of Aisne, a line of defenses which it was forced to abandon. Some detachments which it had held at Amiens now have retired upon Perrone and San Quentin.

"Second, on the center, also, the Germans had taken up a defensive position behind Rheims but were unable to hold it. In the Argonne region they turned back toward the north beyond the forest. On the right wing the retreating movement of the Germans is general from Nancy to the Vosges. Yesterday evening French territory in this vicinity had been completely evacuated."

MAY NOT BOMBARD ANTWERP

London, September 14.—In a dispatch from Antwerp the correspondent of the Evening News says: "According to the German commanding officer from Aersheet, who is now in prison here, the Germans firmly believe that the Antwerp forts are no match for their 17-inch siege guns of which, he says, they have 51. The range of these guns is about 6 miles and each piece can be fired only 20 times. While confessing that the Germans are unable to spare enough men to invest Antwerp, this officer says he believes the siege guns will enable them to take a couple of the forts, thus giving access to the city. As a bombardment would be destructive to Antwerp such action is not contemplated because its harbor is too valuable an asset for Germany."

GERMANS CLAIM THEY ARE GAINING

Berlin Wireless Reports Crown Prince Has Captured Verdun and is Bombarding Other Forts — Battles in Progress Between Paris and Marne River and Near the Upper Moselle — Claim Made Russians Have Been Defeated, Losing 10,000 Men and Much Plunder.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, September 14, via wireless to the Associated Press by way of Sayville, L. I.—The headquarters of the German army in Berlin today gave out the following official report: "The German Crown Prince has captured the enemy's fortified position southwest of Verdun, and is now bombarding with heavy artillery the other forts lying to the south.

"A battle is in progress between Paris and the river Marne over a front of 125 kilometres. The Crown Prince's army is separated from the main battle by the forest of Argonne. The armies of the Crown Prince of Bavaria and General Von Heeringen are in formal battle near the upper Moselle.

"Gen. Hindenberg has defeated the Russians, has crossed the Russian frontier and up to the present time has taken 10,000 prisoners and captured 80 guns and many machine guns and aeroplanes."

Another official report issued today says: "The garrison at Antwerp has been repulsed. The Crown Prince's army is now attacking the forts between Verdun and Toul on both sides. Prince Joachim arrived today in Berlin and has been lodged in Bellevue Palace. Last night's official details of the battle to the east of Paris can not yet be made public. A new battle is in progress which up to the present has been favorable to the Germans. Reports from Paris and London of a German defeat are declared untrue.

FRENCH PURSUE ENEMY

By Associated Press.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Official dispatches today to the French Embassy from Bordeaux elaborate upon previous reports of the victorious advance of the allies.

"General Joffre tells the government that our victory is becoming more and more complete and brilliant," says the report. "The enemy is in full retreat and is abandoning prisoners, wounded, guns and ammunition."

"After a heroic effort during the formidable battle that lasted from the fifth to the twelfth, the army is pursuing the enemy in a way unparalleled by its extension and its intensity. On our left we have crossed the river Aisne below Soissons. At the center the army is north of the river Marne in the Argonne."

NEWS TICKLES THE RUSSIANS AT THE SHOW

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 14.—A Petrograd dispatch to the Central News describes a scene of tremendous enthusiasm on the first night of Imperial Grand Opera season when a bulletin, describing the destruction of the Austrian army between the rivers Bug and Dneister, was read in the middle of the performance. The Russian hymn was sung over and over again and the national anthems of the allies were also sung, while the ambassadors and ministers of those countries bowed from their boxes.

BULLETINS

London, Sept. 14.—Premier Asquith told the House of Commons today that no official information had reached the Ministry of War concerning the repeated stories that German soldiers had abused the Red Cross flag, killed and maimed the wounded and killed women and children.

Paris, September 14.—In the opinion of the best military observers here the German army, under command of Crown Prince Frederick William, is in a critical position. The French have driven the Germans from their positions north of Reims and threaten his line of retreat to the west of the Argonne region, and it is felt that he is liable to be surrounded and forced to capitulate.

Paris, Sept. 14.—In a dispatch from Petrograd the correspondent of the Havas Agency says an official communication declares that the Russian successes in Galicia are continuing.

GERMAN LINES REPORTED CUT

French Rejoicing Over Present Successes, but Realize They Are Not Decisive—Belgians Assume Offensive and Hurl Troops Against the Enemy—Germans Hoping to Capture the Fortress at Verdun.
Operations of the Armies in Northern France.

Paris, Sept. 14.—German military headquarters admit defeat of their right wing army in France and omit to mention the operations on the center of the line, where the crown prince was driven back, after giving battle to the French. The Kaiser's troops have been forced to evacuate Amlens in their general retreat, and his forces are now in rapid flight at the eastern end of the battle line, where the Germans had hoped to retrieve their defeats by capturing the fortress of Verdun.

It is known that conditions bordering on panic arose in Berlin as the news of the German reverses was received. Peace talk was frequently heard.

General Joffre, commander in chief of the French forces, has sent a telegram to Alexandre Millerand, minister of war, saying: "Our victory appears more and more complete.
Everywhere the enemy is in retreat, abandoning prisoners, wounded and stores."

The Germans in East Prussia are reported to have been defeated with heavy losses near Mulsums, but are still bringing up reinforcements.

King Albert of Belgium is in personal command of an army which is driving the Germans steadily toward Brussels. Dispatches from Belgium agree that the Belgian offensive movement has cleared the country of German troops for at least fifteen miles south and southeast of Antwerp. Apparently the Germans, hastening southward to reinforce their staggering troops in France, have been defeated by the Belgians near Termonde, Ghent and Lierre. The character of the news received here indicates clearly that the object of the Belgian offensive is twofold, to shatter the retreating German columns if possible and to recapture Brussels and the country to the east and south.

German Line Cut.

The line of communications used by the Germans has been reported cut and they can not make use of the lines east of the Argonne forest owing to the rapid advance of the allies on the center and right. They must, therefore, try the line through the Meuse valley and Luxemburg, it is believed.

General von Kluck's army, which a week ago was a few miles to the southeast of Paris, has retired more than sixty miles to the northeast, while on the extreme right the army of the Bavarian crown prince, which was attacking the French eastern line from Nancy to Epinal, has fallen back to the frontiers of Lorraine, permitting the French to recapture Lunville and several other towns.

The battle of the Marne, which was decided in a week, is regarded by military critics as the most marvelous reversal of roles of two armies known in their view, it appears to have decided the first phase of the war and to have made impossible the plan which the German staff is supposed to have had of smashing the French by one comprehensive stroke and then turning the bulk of the German forces eastward to confront the Russians. The military experts, however, still are cautious. While recognizing the possibility that the German armies may yet rally and draw a strong defensive line, they recognize also the possibility of the almost complete evacuation of France and Belgium.

The victory on the Marne was received everywhere in France with overflowing joy, but also with that calm moderation and absence of exultation which has marked the national attitude since the outbreak of hostilities. The papers have no huge headlines with a note of triumph.
Comments are sober and self-contained, acknowledging that the present victory, though great, is not yet finally decisive, and France must not relax one iota her efforts to pursue the advantages gained.

GERMAN LOSSES

Rotterdam, Sept. 14.—A dispatch from Berlin says that the losses sustained by the Germans, including the twenty-first casualty list, which has just been published, are given as 6,535 dead, 8,391 seriously wounded and 4,242 slightly wounded. The number of officer killed and wounded was extremely high. The ratio of the wounded to the dead was about two to one.

It is thought in Berlin that the German troops, after the hard driving which they underwent last week, have been given a rest, it being known that the French resistance along the Verdun line will be desperate. It is thought here that a single breach in the Verdun, Toul and Ep-inal line of fortresses and secondary forts would lead to another long advance.

OSCAR STRAUS, ACTIVE AT WASHINGTON IN BEHALF OF GERMANY.
Oscar Straus, lawyer, merchant, diplomat, is taking an active interest in Germany's side of the war, as far as the United States is concerned. He visited Washington with the German ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, and urged President Wilson not to discriminate against Germany in the neutral stand that this country has taken. He claimed, among other things, that German shipping was being discriminated against. It is reported. According to some reports, Mr. Straus spoke of the possibility of the United States securing peace. As one of the most prominent sympathizers with Germany in this country, Mr.
Straus may yet play an important part in any peace move. He was formerly ambassador to Turkey.

AWAKENING OF CHINA.

The Change That Came With the Downfall of the Crown.

The most tragic thing seen by Lord
Bruce in China was, he said in a recent address in London, the total disregard by the people for their ancient monuments.

The revolution, "carried out by a mere handful of students trained in England, the United States and Japan," was a most remarkable phenomenon—the most remarkable perhaps in all history. China had changed. The pig-tail had gone, women's feet were no longer compressed, opium had ceased to be cultivated, and, above and beyond all, the ancient system of examination for high official positions was being swept away.

The most curious things in all China were the long rows of examination cells, not big enough to allow the occupants to lie down, in which the competitors used to be interned for long periods and allowed to come out once in two or three days to stretch their legs. And the test of their merit for administrative position was the composition of poems of immense length.

No Coins With 1914 Date.

Put your hand in your pocket and see if you have any 1914 coin among your change. You haven't. Apparently the government has minted no coins of this year's date. Recently the cornerstone of the new Massachusetts state-house extension was laid at Boston
by the governor of the commonwealth.
An attempt was made to obtain some 1914 coins to put in the tin box which was placed inside the stone. No such coins could be found in any bank or other place of deposit in Boston, and the answer was made to the official applicants that no coins have been

Hookworm Disease.

In some regions in Porto Rico it is estimated that not more than 33 per cent of the natural efficiency of any force of men can be exercised because of the terrible problem of hookworm disease. Yet science has demonstrated that hookworm disease is about the most easily mastered of all the diseases in the category. It is easily cured, because in most cases simply a dose of epson salts, followed by a dose of thymol, and that in turn by another dose of salts, is effective. Thymol is made from the common thyme of the garden.

And Not an Omen in the Sky!

In ancient days when a great war was pending there was some mystical sign of it in the heavens. This one in Europe seems to have been sprung too suddenly for omens in the sky—not a flaming sword, not a word in letters of fire, and as for comets, twenty or thirty are to be seen through telescopes, but not one greets the naked eye of the superstitious. Omens are too slow for our bustling "civilization."

OPERATIONS OF ALLIES

London Sept. 14. The British war office issued the following statement on the recent operations of the allies:
"On Sept. 10 the British army, with a portion of the French forces on its left, crossed the river below Chateau Thierry, a movement which obliged the enemy's force west of Oureq, already assailed by the French corps forming the extreme left of the allies, to give way and retreat northward in the direction of Soissons. Since Sept. 10 the whole German right wing has fallen back in considerable disorder, closely followed by French and British troops. Six thousand prisoners and 150 guns were captured on the 10th and 11th, and the enemy is reported to be continuing his retirement rapidly over the Aisne and evacuating the Soissons region."

"The British cavalry is reported today to be at Fismes, not far from Reims, while the German right has been driven back and thrown into disorder."

"French armies farther west were strongly engaged with the German center, which had pushed forward as far as Vitry. Between the 8th and 10th our allies were unable to make much impression west of Vitry. On the 11th, however, this portion of the German army began to give way and eventually abandoned Vitry, where the enemy's line of battle was forming a salient under the impulse of French troops between the upper Marne and the Meuse. French troops are following up the enemy and driving a portion of his forces northward toward Argonne forest."

"The Third French army reports today that it has captured the entire artillery of a hostile army corps—about 160 guns. The enemy is in retreat along the whole line west of the Meuse and has suffered gravely in morale besides encountering heavy losses in personnel and material."

WHY GERMAN RIGHT RETIRED

Paris, Sept. 14.—The following communication, signed by General
Von Stein, is said to have been issued at Berlin:

"The news is received from headquarters that the army situated east of Paris, which had advanced across the Marne, was attacked by superior force of the enemy, proceeding from Paris between Meaux and Montmi-rail. The battle lasted two days, resulting in heavy losses on both sides.
The French troops advanced and our troops retreated, followed by columns of strong, fresh French troops."

"The situation in the region of the Vosges remains without change. In eastern Prussia fighting has recommenced. The news is received from the army commanded by the crown prince that the forts south of Verdun have been bombarded since Wednesday by heavy artillery."

The Farmer's Opportunity

The weather vane of trade conditions indicates the coming year to be one of the most promising that farmers have ever known, as far as top-knotch prices for their product is concerned.

Prominent grain dealers, stock raisers and men who are familiar with conditions, as they affect the rise and fall of prices in food stuffs, seem to be all of the one opinion—that however the war in Europe affects other business, it will prove profitable to those engaged in agricultural pursuits.

A well known hog breeder of this county is responsible for the remark, "Cheap pork is a thing of the past. People of the United States will never see it again."

The great law of supply and demand again proves itself infallible in the rapidity with which wheat, selling at lower price than for years, bounded up with the first news of the war in Europe. In other farm products, prices already good, have boomed with the prospect of the enormous demand for food stuffs which will be made upon the United States this year.

Everything points to a time, and that not far distant, when the warring nations must be fed from this side of the water.

In the harvest fields of Europe, where shortly the seeds for the harvest should be planted, there is the clash of battle, and instead of looking forward to fields of ripening golden grain, nobility and peasantry alike anticipate nothing but blood and tears, whether victory or defeat; instead of a crop for the sustenance of the nations, there promises to be a crop of shattered hopes and tragic consequences. Even those most hopeful of peace on the continent can hardly expect conditions to change in time for the raising of crops.

The farm lands of Europe laid waste, her stalwart farmers on the march or in the battle field; only the women, the old or the infirm left to plant and tend, thousands upon thousands must look to America for their food supply.

Great Britain would starve in three weeks were she unable to import food. Her wheat cultivation has been curtailed until she is dependent upon the vast cargoes shipped from foreign ports.

France has more than 57 per cent of the land under cultivation and is second only to Russia in her output of cereals. The production of wheat is given first place in the order of importance. But France is now the seat of the greatest military combat ever known in the history of the world. What chance has France to plow and sow? The Angelus rings the curfew upon her peaceful pastoral life.

Russia is second only to the United States as a seller of this cereal, but Russia, crippled by the loss of thousands of men marching from quiet fields to stormy war, cannot properly tend its crops.

Germany has long ceased to be the agricultural country of a century ago, even without her present upheaval.

The world's wheat crop annually amounts to something like 3,000,000,000 bushels, of which European countries produce a little more than half.

The United States will find in the lack of production on the continent unprecedented demand for her cereals and all farm products.

One cargo of 3500 tons of beef is now on the way to England.

Even under the present uncertain trade conditions, the grain carrying record has been broken by merchant ships on the way to sea with great cargoes of wheat.

How can prices in farm products be kept from soaring under the eternal law of production and consumption?

Impoverished conditions may exist in Europe after the war, but people must eat; they can do without comforts, with scant purchases in clothing, but first and foremost man satisfies his hunger.

Europe is pre-eminently a nation of wheat eaters. Previous to 1860 rye bread was a staple food of the peasantry, but since then rye has been generally discarded for wheat bread.

In the coming months Europe will not beg for anything across the water as she will for the cereals and farm products which are the great wealth of the United States. For food she will give her last gold and the United States will answer the demand as far as lies within her possibility.

Germany Is Now Unflinchingly Facing More Than Half the World

By HANIEL VON HAIMHAUSEN, Counselor of German Embassy in Washington

HISTORY is repeating itself in the present situation. On Sept. 2, 1870, during the Franco-Prussian war, the American papers, misled by dispatches from Europe, published the story of a French victory at Sedan. On the following day the French capitulated. GERMANY IS NOW UNFLINCHINGLY FACING MORE THAN HALF THE WORLD. SHE IS CUT OFF FROM MEANS OF COMMUNICATION WITH THIS COUNTRY, AND, PENDING THE RECEIPT OF REAL FACTS, I ASK ALL AMERICANS TO WITHHOLD JUDGMENT BOTH AS TO THE CAUSES OF THE WAR AND THE PROBABLE RESULTS.

Poetry For Today

OUR FLAG.

Your flag and our flag
And how it floats today,
O'er your land and my land,
And half the world away.

Blood red and rose red,
Its stripes forever gleam;
Snow white and soul white,
The good forefather's dream.

Sky blue and true blue,
With stars that beam aright;
A gloried guidon of the day,
A shelter through the night.

Your flag and my flag—
Oh, how much it holds!
Your heart and my heart,
Secure within its folds.

Your heart and my heart,
Beat quicker at the sight;
Sun kissed and wind tossed,
The red, blue and white.

The one flag! the great flag!
The flag for me and you!
Glorified, all else beside,
The red and white and blue.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Lazy Children.

Healthy children are never lazy. If your girl or boy seems lazy call in a physician to find out the cause of the condition, for there is always a reason for it. At nine years of age a perfectly healthy looking child may be suffering from irregular heart action. This would make him tired or lazy. A growing child's strength is severely taxed all the time. When he complains he is being overtaxed or requires rest and treatment to give more strength. Many children grow so rapidly that they use up vitality, become profoundly anæmic, and if not carefully watched and treated at such a time may develop tuberculosis or an acute disease which will prove fatal.

PRESIDENT RETURNING TO CAPITAL

Muddle Over War Tax Program Shortens His Outing.

Windsor, Vt., Sept. 14.—Because of the muddle over the war tax program in congress President Wilson abandoned all thought of lengthening his vacation an extra day or two. He left here this afternoon for Washington in order to confer with House Leader Underwood concerning the protests over the plan to impose a tax on freight. That the president will take a stand against the freight proposal appears likely.

Before leaving the president attended to several pending matters, including consideration of his replies to the recent protests of Emperor William and President Poincare and the war tax problem. He kept in close touch with Washington, hoping to get some news that possibilities of American mediation in the European situation were developing. Nothing, however, indicated that Germany or the other nations are actively interested in the subject at this time.

Majority Leader Underwood, who withheld the revenue bill which would tax beer, wines and freight bills, plans to see President Wilson upon his return from New Hampshire and to ask his open espousal of the proposed freight tax. Underwood will explain to the president that there is considerable opposition to the plan within the party and that opponents of the measure propose to demand a party caucus and to fight for defeat of the freight tax. They want substitute a larger tax on beer, a tax on whiskies and distilled liquors which was not contemplated in the ways and means committee bill, and perhaps stamp and inheritance taxes.

OSCAR STRAUS CALLS ON T. R.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Oscar Straus came to Sagamore Hill and spent several hours with Colonel Roosevelt. When asked if his visit had anything to do with getting the colonel's aid in the peace measures which Mr. Straus is said to be undertaking, the latter replied, "Absolutely no."

In view of the recent conferences which Mr. Straus has had with foreign ambassadors to this country and with Secretary of State Bryan in Washington and Colonel Roosevelt's friendship for the kaiser, Mr. Straus' meeting with Colonel Roosevelt is regarded as highly significant.

Domitian Swatted Flies.

The original "swat the fly" man was Domitian, Roman emperor from 81 to 96 A. D. History records little good of Domitian, but it does say that he anticipated the anti-fly movement by more than 1,800 years. Maltreating the buzzing pests was his favorite amusement. It is recorded, but he was not animated by a desire to save babies' lives or avert epidemics.

One biographer says of the old Roman that "one of his favorite pastimes was hunting and killing flies." and Suetonius, the famous historian, wrote thus of Domitian: "In the beginning of his reign he used to spend daily an hour by himself in private, during which time he did nothing else but catch flies and stick them through the body with a sharp pin."—New York Tribune.

Rail Splitting.

Finished splitting the winter's rails—about sixty. Have never been able to determine whether they split best from top or butt. Sometimes one succeeds, sometimes the other. In splitting posts the usual plan is for the men to face each other, one slowly advancing while the other backs away and the blow of each into the cleft loosening his partner's ax.—From "A Farmer's Note Book."

TALKING AT DINNER.

A Chinese Suggestion That One Person Should Do It All.

As a rule, a dinner conversation is seldom worth remembering, which is a pity. Man, the most sensible of all animals, more readily leans to nonsense than to rational discourse. Perhaps the flow of words may be as steady as the eastward flow of the Yangtze in my own country, but the memory remains only a recollection of a vague, undefined—what? The conversation, like the flavors provided by the cooks, has been evanescent.

Why should not hostesses make as much effort to stimulate the minds of their guests as they do to gratify their palates? What a boon it would be to many a bashful man sitting next to a woman with whom he has nothing in common if some public entertainer during the dinner relieved him from the necessity of always thinking as to what he should say next! How much more he could enjoy the fine dinners his hostess has provided—and as for the woman, what a number of suppressed yawns she might avoid!

To take great pains and spend large sums to provide tasty food for people who cannot enjoy it because they have to talk to one another seems a pity. Let one man talk to the crowd and leave them leisure to eat is my suggestion.—Wu Ting Fang, Late Chinese Minister to United States, in Harper's Monthly.

To Test Bread Dough.

To test light bread dough and make sure as to whether it has risen sufficiently for baking, press the finger in the dough. If the hole remains the dough is in proper condition. If the dough rises and fills the indentation this shows that it is in a condition to continue rising.—Exchange.

If It Must Be.

After a thorough examination, the physician remarked: "What you need, my dear sir, is an operation." "Well," replied the patient resignedly, "Which operation are you cleverest at?"—New York Post.

WEIGHT OF AIR.

One Cubic Foot of Atmosphere Weighs More Than an Ounce.

The common belief that air weighs nothing or almost nothing, a belief which has given rise to the simile, "light as air," needs correction.

A toy balloon filled with a cubic foot of air weighs 564 grains more than the same balloon collapsed. This shows that the weight of a cubic foot of air is 564 grains, which is a good deal more than an ounce. Accordingly a small room (15 by 15 by 10) containing 2,250 cubic feet of air would weigh 2,500 ounces, or 156.25 pounds avoirdupois, as much as a large man. Could you lift a room full of air?

The air in an automobile tire under pressure of 150 pounds a square inch weighs proportionally ten times as much, while air under the pressure of fifty atmospheres weighs fifty times as much as an equal volume of ordinary air. When air is liquefied its volume is reduced to one sixteen-hundredth normal, so that the liquid is 1,600 times as heavy as gaseous air, or about as heavy as water.—St. Louis Post Dis

CARRIES BIG GUN AND MAKES DRE THREATS UPON ENEMY

Oscar Gilmore, of this city, was smaller calibre. He admitted, how placed under arrest Saturday night ever, of having been drinking, and for carrying concealed weapons, and also that there was a man with whom he was on bad terms.

Gilmore was locked up and Monday morning was escorted to the courtroom to face Mayor Coffey upon the serious charge against him.

He admitted carrying the gun, but stated he did not know it was loaded, or that he had flourished the gun and made threats, as charged against him.

Gilmore stated that he had placed the gun in his pocket for the purpose of trading it to a man for a pistol of

After telling a number of stories, which were somewhat conflicting, the man was given a fine of $50 and the costs, and $40 of the amount was suspended pending good behavior.

It is claimed that the man showed the gun while near the fountain on the court house lawn Saturday night, and made threats of using it upon a certain man. The police were notified of the man's actions, and he was arrested.

With the gun, every chamber of which was loaded, the man carried a liberal supply of extra cartridges purchased Saturday night.

UNION SERVICES HELD LAST NIGHT

A large audience attended the Union Temperance meeting at Grace church Sunday night, when the First Baptist church and M. E. church united for the evening services.

Dr. McElfresh, who was pastor of Grace church when the new building was erected, made the principal address of the evening, followed by Rev. A. W. West and Rev. F. E. Ross. The three ministers spoke on the liquor question, and the need of constant work to prevent the adoption of amendments offered by the liquor interests, and the same work to insure the success of the proposed amendments initiated by the temperance workers.

ALL SCHOOLS PAY TRIBUTE TO KEY

Promptly at nine o'clock Monday morning, every pupil in every school in the county and state arose and the stirring words and melody of "The Star Spangled Banner" was wafted out upon the air as a tribute to the man who, 100 years ago, wrote the words to "The Star Spangled Banner", the immortal Francis Scott Key.

In each school a brief history of the famous song and the author was given by the teacher. In some schools other patriotic songs were sung, and the centennial of the national anthem was otherwise appropriately observed.

GILLIS IS FINED GETS OFF EASY

Will Gillis, the young colored man who was arrested for tapping the till at the McClellan grocery, was Monday morning fined $50 and the costs and the fine suspended upon his promise to never again stray from the straight and narrow path.

The man also paid Mr. McClellan $3.45, the sum which he had removed from the cash drawer previous to the time when he was caught in the act of relieving the till of another hand-full of coin.

Gillis promised good behavior, and the fine was suspended to be enforced when occasion demands.

FIRST MINISTERS REACH CITY TODAY

Between 25 and 35 ministers had arrived in the city up to Monday afternoon late, and Tuesday is expected to bring a great many more to the city to be present at the formal opening of Conference Wednesday morning.

The Board of Examiners and undergraduates comprise the first arrivals. Included in the Board of Examiners, who arrived Monday are: Rev. Freeman, Columbus; Rev. Jackson, Hilliards; Rev. Scott, of Portsmouth; Rev. Hargrave, of Chillicothe; Rev. Elston, Marietta and Rev. Watson, of Jackson.

Tuesday will be occupied with Conference examinations in the Presbyterian church, and the Conference entertainment at Grace M. E. church at night.

W. C. T. U. WILL AID BY RAISING FUNDS

At the meeting of those interested in the formation of a temperance organization, Saturday afternoon, those present subscribed nearly $200 to start the work, and contributions will be received by Treasurer Frank Jackson. These may be sent to him by mail.

It was announced that the W. C. T. U., at its recent county convention, anticipated the need of finances for conducting the fight for the temperance amendments, and each local organization in the county pledged financial aid, to be obtained by entertainments.

A vote of thanks was extended to the W. C. T. U. for their generous offer.

ANOTHER ARRESTED FOR BOOTLEGGING

Robert Martin, colored, was arrested by Bell and Baughn Saturday night, on a charge of furnishing intoxicants to one Chas. Monroe.

The charge was preferred against the man by Chief Moore, upon the testimony of Monroe.

Martin admitted giving Monroe a drink, but claimed that he was not aware that it was contrary to law.

The man faced Mayor Coffey Monday morning, and after he had been questioned for a short time, was remanded back to jail to await further examination.

WATCH YOUR HORSES TWO MORE STOLEN

A horse and buggy was stolen from Xenia Saturday night, and another horse and buggy was stolen at South Charleston about the same time. So far the thieves have not been apprehended.

The outfit stolen in Xenia was valued at $400, while that in South Charleston was valued at $250.

Horse thieves are unusually busy at the present time, and may be expected to operate in this city and county at any time, as testified by the recent thefts.

DEEP INTEREST IN RURAL SCHOOLS

County Superintendent, Frank M. Allen, reports that the interest manifested in the rural schools is much greater than ever before, and that the new system is meeting with great approval as patrons of the schools become more and more familiar with it.

All over the county a great deal of interest is shown, with virtually every one ready to do all they can in aiding the schools.

The sanitary conditions surrounding rural schools, which have long not always received the attention necessary, are already being given attention by the Superintendent and County Board of Education, with the ultimate result that conditions will be decidedly improved in that way as well as in many others.

ONE DEATH DUE TO DIPHTHERIA

Schools at Staunton Are Closed This Morning Following Appearance of the Black Diphtheria Which Causes One Death and Results in Critical Illness of Another.

As a precaution against further spread of what is said to be an outbreak of black diphtheria, the public schools at Staunton were closed Monday morning to remain closed until further danger of the disease is past.

The closing of the schools is a result of the death Friday night of Nancy Ellen, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson, who passed away after a very short illness from the dreaded disease and was buried at Staunton Sunday. Another child, Roberta, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, is now in a critical condition with the disease, according to reports received Monday.

It is claimed that the disease is diphtheria in its worst form, and precautionary measures are being taken, such as closing all public meeting places and the use of anti-toxin.

The appearance of the epidemic has caused no little excitement around Staunton, and it is feared that a further spread of the disease may occur notwithstanding the efforts made to stop it.

MANSLAUGHTER IS FACED BY BASTIBLE

James Bastible, the Bainbridge man who was arrested in Springfield for the death of Harry Walthall, has been charged with man-slaughter.

A number of witnesses testified that they saw Bastible kick the man whom he had knocked down. A kick in the head is said to have caused his death.

Bastible is to be arraigned at once and it is expected that he will be bound over to the grand jury on the charge of manslaughter.

One of the proprietors of the cigar store in which the trouble occurred, was arrested for keeping a gambling device. It is claimed that the trouble leading to Walthall's

AUSTRIAN ARMIES ARE SURROUNDED

Sixty Thousand Prisoners Reported Taken By Russians.

INVADING FORCES CRUSHED

Complete Defeat of the Austrian Armies in Russian Poland and Galicia Claimed by the Russian War Office. Germans in East Prussia Reported to Have Been Driven Back, but Are Being Reinforced.

London, Sept. 14.—Defeat of the Austrians in Galicia after a desperate battle with the Russians lasting seventeen days was reported from St. Petersburg, following news of the capture of 120,000 Austrians as the result of the complete crushing of the invading forces in Russian Poland, which have fled beyond the San river. Both Austrian armies are surrounded and their surrender is imminent, it is reported.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that the German forces in East Prussia have been driven back with great losses near Mulsent, but are still bringing up fresh reinforcements. The Germans are making their chief efforts in the region of the Mauersee lakes.

Another dispatch from St. Petersburg says: "Two Austrian armies have been surrounded and 60,000 prisoners have been taken, including 500 officers from one army and 600 from another. The surrender of both armies is impending. The Germans are again moving troops from the east to the west."

A dispatch from Paris says: "The Matin learns from St. Petersburg that the First Austrian army under General von Auffenberg has lost 390 officers, 28,000 soldiers and 400 guns, and that the Second Austrian army has lost as prisoners 500 officers and 70,000 men. The Russian victory is considered to be absolutely decisive."

The French government received this report: "The battle which has been fought in Galicia during the past seventeen days has ended with a great victory for the Russian army. The Austrians are in retreat along the whole front, leaving in the hands of the Russians a large number of prisoners and supplies."

BELGIANS AGGRESSIVE

Bordeaux, Sept. 14.—The Belgian army has resumed a strong offensive before Antwerp, driving the Germans beyond Louvain and to the southeast. An important engagement has been fought on the right bank of the Scheldt, the Germans hastily retreating. Other Belgian successes have been gained near Termonde and Ghent and the vicinity of these places has been entirely cleared of the enemy.

THIRTY THOUSAND MADE PRISONERS

London, Sept. 14.—The assertion that Russians have won a great victory in the capture of Tomaszow, in South Poland, and an account of the military plan of the Russians in that region, are contained in the following dispatches received at the Russian embassy:

"The Austrian invasion of South Poland, which penetrated as far as Opole, Kranostav and Seamosie, was protected on its right by an army operating east of Lemberg. This latter army was completely defeated by the Russians near Lemberg. From that moment it became evident that if the Austrian right flank could not continue a stubborn resistance, the retreat of the main army from South Poland would be imperiled by the capture of Tomaszow. On Sept. 10 it is probable that the Russians drove a wedge through the Austrian line. Sept. 13 a brilliant Russian victory is reported, in which 30,000 prisoners and several hundred guns were taken, and this is probably the immediate result of the Tomaszow action."

AUSTRIANS SURROUNDED?

St. Petersburg, Sept. 14.—Two Austrian armies have been surrounded and 60,000 prisoners taken, including 500 officers of one army and 600 of the other. Surrender of both armies is said to be impending.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Six Hurt in Auto Accident.

Fremont, O., Sept. 14.—Miss Florence Hard, twenty-seven, of Painesville, was perhaps fatally injured, and William Halbensen suffered a dislocated hip in an auto accident west of Fremont. His wife, daughter Gertrude, son Harry and Margaret, a niece, all sustained painful injuries.

Municipal Saloon Planned.

St. Clairsville, O., Sept. 14.—Mingo Junction, Jefferson county, one of the two places that supply dry Belmont and Jefferson counties and West Virginia, may have a municipal saloon. A census has just been taken that under the Ohio law will allow a ninth saloon to be opened in the place, and council may ask for the license, thus having the only municipal saloon in the state.

Toledo, Sept. 14.—An injunction was granted by Judge John M. Killits in district federal court restraining the city from enjoining the 3 cent streetcar fare ordinance, which became effective March 27 last. CRITICISES CANNY ANDY

Bordeaux, Sept. 14.—M. Clemenceau has a remarkable article in the Homme Libre. The article attacks the substance of Von Bethmann-Hollweg's manifesto.

A considerable portion of the article is devoted to Andrew Carnegie. "Mr. Carnegie," M. Clemenceau says, "an excellent philanthropist on whom the Kaiser has bestowed flattering attentions, pleads timidly the cause of Emperor William, alleging that he deserves credit and that Europe owes to him the forty year peace. The good Scotch multi-millionaire talks glibly. The forty years of peace was punctuated by incessant quarrels and five menaces of war and was crowned by an effective war for which I defy Mr. Carnegie to find any other reason than the Kaiser's desire to crush French independence and overcome England and Russia."

ORDER OF THE IRON CROSS.

Famous Badge For Bravery in Battle Revived by the Kaiser.

Shortly after the opening of hostilities the German Kaiser, following the precedent established by William I., reconstituted the famous Order of the Iron Cross. The New Yorker Staats-Zeitung furnishes an interesting history of this coveted mark of distinction, which is awarded solely for the performance of deeds of the highest valor on the field of battle.

King Frederick William III. of Prussia founded the order on March 10, 1813, as a reward for services rendered to the fatherland in the Napoleonic wars. The plainness of the iron insignia was intended to remind its wearers of the hard times that had brought it into being. It was a small iron Maltese cross inscribed with a narrow silver band just inside the beveled edge. The only other marks upon it were three oak leaves in the center, the royal initials F. W. surmounted by a small crown and the date 1813. As is customary in the case of royal orders, there were two classes and a grand cross, the latter twice the regular size. In 1841 a permanent endowment was added, paying fixed annual sums to the wearers of the decoration.

On July 19, 1870, the day that France again declared war on Prussia, the order was revived by King William I. on the same conditions as originally instituted. At that time the three oak leaves were dropped, and the letter W, the crown and the date 1870 were substituted for the original marks, but the three leaves were restored by an order of the imperial council in 1895. The decoration as revised in 1870 has been bestowed on 48,574 German warriors of all classes, including those coming from German states outside of Prussia.

A New War Explosive.

A new submarine mine explosive called "trotol," which cannot be set off by percussion, but which has to be confined and fired by electricity, was employed in the recent annual war test of submarine mines off Sandy Hook. Trotol, it is declared, can be melted and handled without any danger. Mines loaded with 100 pounds of the new explosive and fired during the recent test threw columns of water and pieces of targets 250 feet to 350 feet in the air. Each mine was allowed to remain in the water two hours before being exploded in order to test the water tight joints in the cable containing the firing circuit.—Electrical World.

Mines.

Nine mines in ten the world over are richer in the first 1,000 feet than in the second, but few are worth operating below 3,000 feet.

A LAME BACK-KIDNEY

And it will give you even worse if not checked. Mrs. H. T. Strayge, Gainesville, Ga., was fairly down on her back with kidney trouble and inflamed bladder. She says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills and now my back is stronger than in years, and both kidney and bladder troubles are entirely gone." Blackmer & Tanquary, adv.

"ATLANTIC CITY" POUNDING SHOALS

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 14.—Rising and falling upon a heavy sea, the steamship Atlantic City, inbound from New York with thirty-one passengers on board, is pounding the shoals in the inlet with a thirty-mile gale blowing. The big liner is owned by Warren Webster of Camden.

Mined the Simplon Tunnel.

Both Italy and Switzerland have adopted measures to fortify the entrances of the famous Simplon tunnel. Near the middle of the tunnel, a few yards from the Swiss frontier, Italian engineers have put in place a double iron door that can resist the rush of an express train proceeding at the rate of sixty miles an hour. The iron door is worked by electricity from Iselle, the station at the Italian end of the tunnel, and under ordinary conditions it is hidden in the rocky side of the tunnel. The door is carefully tested once a week. The mines are connected with Brigue and Iselle by electrical devices, so that by the mere pressure of a button the Simplon tunnel could be destroyed in a second.—New York Independent.

Curious Water Supply.

A curious form of water hole is found in the deserts of Western Australia. The hole is dry by day, but yields an abundant supply of water by night. The flow of water is preceded by weird hissing and sounds of rushing air.

OUR NAUTICAL ALMANAC.

It is Issued by Uncle Sam and Costs Him $5,000 a Year.

It costs the government $5,000 a year to get out the nautical almanac, which is authority on nautical questions all over the world, and the cost probably would be greater, so far as the United States is concerned, but for the fact that there is in operation a sort of mutual plan, under which other nations do a part of the work, all of them getting the benefit of the publication.

The nautical almanac contains computations for three years in advance. For instance, this year the naval observatory is getting out data for the year 1917, and next year it will get out the data for 1918.

This is due to the fact that years ago, when sailing vessels went around the world and when there was no Suez canal to shorten the route, it was necessary for them to have nautical almanacs for considerably longer periods of time than the year of sailing. As a rule, these sailing voyages lasted from two to three years.

"It is, of course, not now necessary to issue the almanac three years in advance," says Captain Joseph L. Jayne, superintendent of the naval observatory, "but the old law has never been changed. In the days of the sailing vessels all the maritime nations provided by law for the issue of nautical almanacs from three to five years in advance. A similar law passed by the American congress is still in force."

Captain Jayne points out that Great Britain, France, Germany, Spain and Italy are the other nations, in addition to the United States, that issue nautical almanacs.—New York Press.

OBLIGING METERS.

New Scheme For Regulating the Light From Electric Bulbs.

An ingenious watchdog meter has now appeared to make more satisfactory the electric lighting of a home by a fixed number of lamps for a fixed sum a month. This method of buying electricity is not general, though it is coming into wider use for small homes, but one of its drawbacks is that the householder contracts to pay for five lamps at so much a month, to be burned as frequently as desired, extra lights are not available for any evenings when special illumination is wanted, such as in times of entertaining a sickness.

The watchdog meter will permit the extra illumination just when desired, provided it is not done too often. Ordinarily the meter permits only a fixed amount of electricity to be used as provided by the contract. Extra lamps are wanted a bit, the meter is tilted, and this permits more electricity to come through. Then when the extra lights are no longer needed the bulb is tilted back, or if it is not tilted back it will go back automatically in a few hours.

When the bulb is tilted up a liquid flows from one part of the meter to another, and once all the liquid has flowed through—something after the idea of an hourglass—the meter will refuse to grant any more extra light until a collector from the company has called to make an adjustment.—Saturday Evening Post.

ALL STARS COP BACON

Billy Hedgecock's Columbus Aggregation Puts One Over on the Athletics in a Stiff Battle—Score 6 to 5

The result of a stiff and exciting contest at Athletic park Sunday afternoon proclaimed a victory over the Athletics by the handy All Stars of Columbus, under the direction of Billy Hedgecock, old Washington catcher.

The game was marked by good, steady play and few features unless the absence of glaring errors could be so termed. The All Stars, in the nine frames, succeeded in laying by six scores, while the Athletics garnered but five.

Things looked bad in the first inning when the visitors pulled in four of their scores, but after that the boys settled down into steady form.

When Billy Hedgecock, old Washington C. H. backstop, stepped up to the plate at Athletic park Sunday afternoon as leader of the opposing Columbus All Stars, he was greeted with an enthusiastic burst of applause from the lines and before the old-timer could gain his composure he was thrown into another panic when Walter Evans stepped up to the plate and presented him a love offering from "The Washington Fans" in the form of a handsome silk umbrella.

Billy could do nothing but stammer his appreciation, but he did that profusely. The work of the old timer Sunday showed that he has lost nothing of his former prowess on the diamond and it was difficult to distinguish at times whether the fans were cheering for the Athletics or for Billy Hedgecock.

Tuesday the Athletics start out on their visiting tour.

The box score of Sunday's game follows:

OFFICIAL BRITISH STATEMENT

London, September 14.—Important details of the operations of the British army in France are contained in a report which the War Office issued this afternoon. When the German army began its eastward movement to cut the French center, according to General French, it was ignoring the British as a factor in the fight. The allies began a general advance on September 7 against the German rear guard of their right wing which had been left along the river Oureq. The British army was reinforced. The Germans began a retirement on their right on the 7th. It was the first time that they had turned back since the battle of Mons.

According to letters found on prisoners they had expected to enter Paris in a few days. The order to retreat was a bitter disappointment. The British crossed the river Marne on the 9th with the French and on the 10th captured 1500 men, four great guns, six machine guns and 50 transport wagons. The Germans of the right army seemed demoralized. They were without food and surrendered readily, according to the British report.

The continued advance General French says, has delighted the troops, who, with the reinforcements received, are filled with zeal and anxious to press on.

BREAK DOWN STUBBORN RESISTANCE

London, September 14.—Official Press Bureau this afternoon issued the following statement: "All day yesterday the enemy stubbornly disputed the passage of the Aisne by our troops but in spite of the difficulty of forcing the river in the face of a strong opposition nearly all the crossings were secured by sunset. On our right and left the French troops were confronted with a similar task in which, like ourselves, they were successful. Many more prisoners were taken. It is reported from the French headquarters that the German Crown Prince's army has been driven back and that he has moved his headquarters from St. Menchould to Mont Saucon.

PAUPERS COST THE COUNTY $9,944 DURING FISCAL YEAR

Total Cost of Keeping the Helpless at County Infirmary Reaches $7,517.57, but Produce From Infirmary Farm Not Included—Other Interesting Figures.

According to reports on file at the County Auditor's office the total amount paid by Fayette county for the support of paupers during the fiscal year ending September 1, 1914, reached $9,944.43. However, the revenue from the County Infirmary farm during that period is not included in the actual outlay of money. The total cost to support the inmates of the Infirmary, reached $7,517.57, and the cost of keeping paupers otherwise supported by the county for the year, reaches $2,426.86.

BELGAINS IN 3 DAY BATTLE

By Associated Press.

London, September 14.—Dispatches from Antwerp relate that the fighting by the Belgian force, which went out from Antwerp last Friday, lasted for three days, day and night. There was a heavy engagement among the ruins of Louvain, the Belgians penetrating twice to the center of the city. Yesterday the Belgians delivered a fierce cavalry attack on the Germans at Louvain.

RIVER BOAT GOES UNDER

By Associated Press.

Gallipolis, O., Sept. 14.—The steamer, Greenwood, was sunk in the Ohio river near Crown City, a few miles below here, today, after striking a hidden obstruction. The passengers and crew were rescued without trouble and brought to this city. The boat is owned by the Green Line company, of Cincinnati, and was on her way from Cincinnati to Charleston, W. Va.

CAT HAD RABIES

A cat suffering from hydrophobia attacked and inflicted a bite upon the hand of Mrs. Emmitt Clark, of Chillicothe, a few days ago.

426.86.

On the first Monday in September, 1913, the infirmary had 40 inmates, 26 of whom were men and 14 women. The number admitted for the year ending the first Monday in the present month, was 14. Total number supported during year was 54, consisting of 36 men and 18 women. Five died during the year, and eight were discharged, so that at the present time the number is 41, 30 of whom are men.

The average cost of keeping the inmates of the Children's Home was $166.01 each, and the average number in the home was 36.

During the year ending September 1, 1914, $529 was paid to soldiers, sailors and marines, and $3,367 to wives and widows, making a total of $3,896.

After the animal's head had been examined at Columbus and a report that the animal had been suffering from the rabies, had been returned, Mrs. Clark immediately made arrangements to take the Pasteur treatment.

NORMAL SCHOOL TO OPEN OCTOBER 5TH

The county Normal school, which was awarded to Jeffersonville, will open October 5th, and all who expect to become teachers will have the opportunity of taking the course required by law.

So far the instructor for the Normal school has not been employed, but will probably be employed within the next few days.

Jeffersonville has taken hold of the new school and announces that arrangements have been made to defray the expenses of the school until January 1st, when the state pays for the teacher.

It is expected that quite a number of those who later expect to teach will be enrolled in the course at Jeffersonville.

COUNCIL TO MEET AT 7:30 TONIGHT

Council will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock, and a number of important questions will come before the city solons.

One of these questions is the matter of submitting to the voters of the city the matter of building a new sewerage system.

Another question, which will, in all probability be taken up, is that of completing the fill through Paint creek bottom so that the new street can be used. As the street now stands it is not in condition to be used, although there is an ever increasing demand for the roadway.

North North street will probably receive some attention, owing to the very bad condition of that street. Repair before winter sets in is in great demand.

PREPARING FOR THE NEW 'PHONES

Linemen in the employ of the Washington Home Telephone Company, now a branch of the Ohio State Telephone Company, are rapidly completing the work of stringing new insulated wires from the lead wires to the phones throughout the city, so that when the new telephone instruments are installed all that will be necessary will be the removal of the old phone and the attaching of the new instrument.

To date the new instruments and switchboard has not been purchased by the company.

Cats and Wildcats.

Wild cats are now rarities in Europe, though formerly they were comparatively common in most parts of the continent. The few survivors occur mostly in Hungary and occasionally in Spain and Greece. In Spain, by the way, the animals build nests in trees or among tall bamboos for the rearing of their young, though generally they prefer a crevice in a rocky country in which to make a lair. Our domesticated cat is not derived from the untamable European animal, but was introduced ready tamed from Egypt—London Mail.

As to "Sights."

A teacher of English criticised an essay written by a girl pupil in which the girl used the word "eyesight."
"What other kind of sight could there be except 'eyesight'?" asked the teacher.

Rising to the challenge, the pupil replied, "Well, there are foresight and hindsight."—Indianapolis News.

Foolish Suggestion.

"You ought to typewrite your poetry," said the harsh editor.
"Great Scott!" replied Mr. Penwiggles.
"If I were expert enough to do that kind of typewriting do you think I'd be putting in my time on poetry?"—Chicago News.
